POET WATSON VANISHES FROM PUBLIC VIEW

EVEN CLOSEST FRIENDS UNAWARE OF HIS WHEREABOUTS.

BROTHER SAYS HALLUCINATIONS HAVE RETURNED.

HIS ATTACKS ON ASQUITHS.

New York, Dec. 18.—William Watson, the British poet who came to this country recently, has disappeared as completely as has Dr. F. A. Cook, and his brother, Robinson Watson, believes he is under the obsession of a recurrent hallucination that first attacked him seventeen years ago in the stress of overwork and the conflict of powerfully opposed emotions.

"I, who alone have the right to speak out," says Robinson Watson, "discards deliberately, in full knowledge that the terrible things lightly buried by my brother against a certain distinguished family, are in no sense the responsible utterances of the poet, William Watson. They are the outcome of a mental malady alien to himself, and when he returns to himself the Watsons know will condemn them with burning words and bitter tears.

Robinson Watson goes on to explain, in an interview telegraphed from Montreal and published to-day, how his brother came to enter on "what is perhaps the saddest experience that can be endured in the life of any man—a mental aberration."

On the death of Tennyson, William Watson, he says, labored fifty hours without rest and almost without food to produce what was originally intended to be a brief commemorative poem, but under the impulse of stirring ambition, became "Lachrymae Musarum," a poem which Mr. Watson quotes Mr. Gladstone as saying was greater than Tennyson's own ode on the death of the Duke of Wellington.

"And now I must disclose the fact that at that time my brother had been for many years contending with adverse pecuniary circumstances," says Robinson Watson, "and when the great news came it was like a veritable avalanche of good fortune to him. But it was more, much more; it was too much; it was more than he could bear. A week later it became evident beyond all doubt that his mental balance was gone."

William Watson's delusions, says his brother, assumed the form of a belief that he had a mission to perform against certain exalted personages. That belief, the brother is convinced, has returned.

The poet, he said, had come to America with a deeply-rooted belief that he had a mission of hostility against a certain family in high station in England. Nothing can dissuade him from that wild infatuation.

This family, as disclosed in New York recently by the poet himself, is that of Premier Asquith.

WALSH APPEALS TO THE SUPREME COURT.

Writ of Certiorari Asked by Attorneys For Convicted Chicago Banker.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Complaining that the verdict in his case was "prejudicial" because of the fact that a number of counts against him in his trial in the United States courts of Illinois were based upon the same transaction, the Chicago banker, John R. Walsh, to-day filed in the Supreme Court of the United States his petition for a writ of certiorari, which, if granted, would have the effect of bringing the record in the case to the Supreme Court for general review.

Walsh was indicted in the District Court for the Northern district of Illinois in January, 1908, on 150 counts, all alleging irregularity in the conduct of the Chicago National Bank, of which he was president, and upon the subsequent trial was found guilty upon fifty-four of the counts. He was sentenced to serve a term of five years in the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, and last October the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirmed the verdict of the lower court.

It is the verdict of the Court of Appeals that Walsh desires to have reviewed by the Supreme Court.

The case is not of a character that can be brought to this court on either an appeal or a writ of error, and no recourse except that of a writ of certiorari was left to him. The court, however, has agreed to hear the petition, a motion for the allowance of the petition probably will be entered in the court next Monday. The presentation of the matter will have the effect of staying the execution of the order of imprisonment.

PLEADS GUILTY AND IS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE.

Washington, Ind., Dec. 18.—Stephen Cole, a farmer, who was indicted by the grand jury two weeks ago, on the charge of the murder of his cousin, Geo. Cole, by shooting him in the back a year ago last October, to-day expressed a desire to plead guilty to first degree murder.

He was taken from jail to the court room where the jury was quickly impaneled and Cole acknowledged he killed his cousin. He was sentenced to imprisonment for life at Michigan City.

Stephen Cole's son, Charles, who was charged with being an accessory to the crime, was discharged by the court.

KEEP IRON HOT

Decision of Insurgents and Democratic Allies.

SPEECHES ROASTING ADMINISTRATION EVERY DAY.

WAR ON BALLINGER ALARMING TAFT'S SUPPORTERS.

PRESIDENT GROWS SENSITIVE.

Washington, Dec. 18.—(Special.)—The Democrats in the House and their Republican insurgent allies have been informally conferring about the adoption of a programme, at the head of which will be printed the motto, "Keep something going on all the time."

It is intended to have a real, animated, red-hot speech on some live topic sprung on every day of general debate. Mr. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, with his speech demanding an investigation of the Interior Department, set the pace, and there is now an effort to enlist the orators and make sure that no day's sun will set without somebody having aired some really vigorous views about some aspect of the administration of national affairs.

One topic, which has been named as likely to be the subject of a resolution and of a speech or two is of the failure of the Government to conduct prosecutions and recover money lost by defaulters. A number of especially flagrant cases are said to have been discovered of failure to pursue defaulters and their surties.

Some inquiry about the extent of these alleged delinquencies, why they are not urged in court with a view to turning them into the available column is now in progress, and a resolution of inquiry will be introduced in the early days after the reconvening of Congress, calling on the Treasury for information. A number of especially flagrant cases are said to have been discovered of failure to pursue defaulters and their surties.

Secretary Ballinger is to be a target for a good deal more oratory after Christmas. One feature of the case which is to be made the subject of a resolution and some speechmaking is the charge that a system of something much like espionage of employees is being established in the Interior Department, to ascertain whether any of its employees are giving information to the critics of the Administration. It is believed by the responsible chiefs that such a system exists and they are determined to close them in if possible.

Cabinet Is Alarmed.

The New York Tribune to-day prints the following:

"The continued attacks on Secretary Ballinger, and over his shoulders on the Administration, are the occasion of grave anxiety to the members of President Taft's Cabinet, many of whom see in them an additional evidence of the movement to discredit the Taft Administration and bring about a situation which might compel the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt in 1912. The members of the Cabinet deemed the evidences of the existence of such a movement of sufficient importance to lay them before the President on his return from his Western trip, and several of them only to confirm the opinion they then entertained.

President Taft, who supposed his exonerated of Secretary Ballinger, made a public last September, would put an end to the whole controversy and prevent further publication of such charges, has grown so sensitive on the subject that few members of the Cabinet care to risk his displeasure by bringing it to his attention. Mr. Taft refuses to read all newspaper and magazine articles on the subject, dismisses everything dealing with the political end of his Administration with impatience and his advisers are forced to the conclusion that he has little idea of the extent or far-reaching influence of the controversy."

Report On Pellagra.

The medical officers of the army who have investigated the causes of pellagra at the Illinois State Hospital at Joliet, have reported that the disease has existed among the inmates of this hospital for a number of years, probably, though it has not been recognized as pellagra. During the past year, the medical officers have ascertained that seventy-five cases of pellagra in this institution. From May 8 to August 10 twenty-six deaths are ascribed to the disease.

It is said that in all probability the cause of the disease was the use of immature corn containing diseased kernels which planted the malady in the intestinal tract, already diseased.

Want Case Advanced.

A supplication is to be made to the Supreme Court early in January to advance for hearing the appeal of the Government from the decision of Judge Holt at New York, practically exempting from prosecution certain officials of the sugar trust because their acts are barred by the statute of limitations.

Vigorous Minority Report.

There will be a very vigorous minority report by four Democratic members of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce on the Mann "white slave" bill, which was favorably acted upon by a majority of that committee to-day. This minority report, which will be written by Representative Richardson, of Alabama, will assert that the matter is one to be handled by the Immigration Commission has no jurisdiction whatever, and that the Mann bill is unconstitutional and a gross violation of the right of States to regulate the morals of their own inhabitants.

The minority report will be signed by Representative Richardson, of Alabama; Bartlett, of Georgia; Adamson, of Georgia, and Peters, of Massachusetts.

Kentucky Postmasters.

vice L. Treadway, resigned; Stanton Powell county, William Hardwick, vice J. H. Hardwick, resigned; Tackitts Mill, Owen county, A. Blythe, Jr., vice A. Blythe, resigned; Tarkenton, Breckenridge county, Charlie Tabelling, vice K. Hook resigned.

Parker Eulogizes Peckham.

With Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York, presiding and delivering the principal address of eulogy, the members of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States met in the Supreme Court rooms at the Capitol to-day and adopted resolutions commemorating the late Justice Rufus W. Peckham, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Parker announced the appointment of a committee of twelve members of the bar with United States Senator Elihu Root as chairman, to draft suitable resolutions of respect. The resolutions were presented later and the committee paid a high compliment to the late jurist, declaring that "for a full half century he served the cause of justice without fear and without reproach."

SOUTH INTERESTED IN MOVEMENTS OF BROWN.

Man Who Has Figured Conspicuously On the Bullish Side of Cotton Market.

New Orleans, Dec. 18.—Much interest in local cotton circles is centered in the return to New Orleans to-morrow of W. P. Brown, who has figured conspicuously during the last few months as the leader of a clique of big Southern bulls interested in the advance of prices in the cotton future market.

Mr. Brown left in the fall for New York, while other operators remained in New Orleans. While he was in New York reports of various deals attributed to him formed daily factors in the local future market. Every day local firms would receive private messages from New York, saying: "Brown has just bought 5,000 March," or "Brown took on 10,000 bales of cotton," or "Brown sold 10,000 bales of cotton." Ultimately the cotton market went to a level above 15 cents.

Brown is expected to join his comrades on the New Orleans Exchange Monday. On that day the Government Census Bureau report on spinning will be made public, and he is expected to be a conspicuous figure on the floor of the exchange that day.

Mr. Brown has declined to talk of his campaign and no outside estimate has been made on the profits in which many capitalists of the South are said to share.

NELSON COUNTY "WET"

GIVES MAJORITY OF 654 IN LOCAL OPTION ELECTION.

"Drys" Make Vigorous Efforts To Stem Tide With the Aid of Noted Speakers.

Bardonia, Ky., Dec. 18.—(Special.)—Nelson county was carried by the "wets" to-day by the majority of 654, as against 265 three years ago. Every precinct in the county showed an increased majority except Howardstown, Boston and Nelsonville.

In Bardonia the "wet" majority was 554. All day the women and children paraded with banners, sang temperance songs at the polls and distributed hot coffee and sandwiches free.

The "drys" made a vigorous campaign to carry the county for local option. Among the speakers that took an active part for the "drys" were former Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, who made four speeches in the county; Judge O'Brien, of the Court of Appeals; Judge R. H. Thurman, of Washington county; one, and Judge Samuel E. Jones, of this district. Commonwealth's Attorney D. A. McCandless, of Hart county, and N. W. Halstead, County Attorney of Nelson, also made an active canvass. In addition, Mrs. Keogh of Chicago, who is the greatest prohibition advocate in the country, made an active canvass among the women and children.

The negro voters were looked after by Bishop Davis, of Louisville, in the interest of the "drys."

The "wets" made a "gun-shoe" fight and without the aid of any speakers rolled up a majority that was even surprising to them.

FILE CONTEST.

Local Option Committee Alleges Fraud In Somerset Election.

Somerset, Ky., Dec. 18.—(Special.)—The local option campaign committee to-day filed a contest in the recent election held here that resulted in a victory for the "wets" by a majority of 57. They claim fraud and other irregularities. In all eleven charges are preferred. Under the law, unless contested, the election is settled, which will likely be several months. Attorneys Wesley & Brown, Denton & Wallace and V. F. Smith represent the "drys."

NEW HUNTING GROUNDS

ROOSEVELT PARTY STARTS ON SECOND STAGE OF JOURNEY.

Wilds of Uganda, In Interior of Darkest Africa, the Objective Point.

Nairobi, British East Africa, Dec. 18.—To-day the American hunting and scientific expedition began what may be termed the second stage of its journey in the interior of Africa. The objective point is Gondokoro, Uganda, which it is expected, will be reached on February 17.

Col. Roosevelt and his associates were given a cordial send-off as they boarded the train of Kisumu. Arriving there to-morrow, the party will board the steamer Clement Hill and cross the Victoria Nyanza to Entebbe. With the passage of the lake, the Americans will have left behind them British East Africa and enter the Uganda protectorate, the widest and most beautiful, perhaps the most dangerous and certainly the most interesting field of their explorations.

All were in the best of health and spirits when they set forth to-day in search of new conquests. At Entebbe Col. Roosevelt and Kermit will be entertained at the home of the Governor, proceeding on Tuesday by motor car to Kampala, at the head of the lake, where they will join the others of the party, who in the meantime will have arrived at that place by steamer. At Kampala the hunt will be organized, and on December 22 the invasion that will bring them into the province of the Nile will begin.

POLICE BUSY

Running Down Anonymous Letters To Kellers.

EVERYTHING BEING DONE TO FIND MISSING CHILD.

FAMILY STILL HOLDS TO THE ABDUCTION THEORY.

ASKED FOR $30,000 RANSOM.

In pursuit of their purpose not to pass by even the slightest clue that might lead to the recovery of little Alma Keller, the 8-year-old daughter of Fred F. Keller, who disappeared from her home at 507 East Broadway, last Wednesday a week ago, the police were busy yesterday in running down information imparted in the hundreds of anonymous letters that are being received by the family. Although the names of the writers cannot be learned and nothing of any value seems to be imparted by them, yet the police are searching for even the slightest clue that may lead to the restoration of the little girl.

This was practically the only line of work undertaken by the police yesterday, and after hours of diligent toil they were no nearer to the solution of the mystery than on the day when the child disappeared. In past cases little has been found in any of them, not a single one has gone unred by the parents.

Request For $30,000.

The most amusing of the letters was the one received by Frank Fehr, cousin of the missing child, and intimate friend of the family. The writer of this letter stated that he lived on Preston street and that he knew absolutely the whereabouts of the girl and would turn her up for $30,000. So confident was he that he directed exactly the time and the place that the money should be placed. "Place the money on the corner at the proper time and in a few hours the parents will be pressing their baby to their breasts," read the letter. In speaking of the matter last night Mr. Fehr said: "I wish that the man was right, but he will have to give us his proof before we go to laying such large sums of money on the street corners."

Capt. Carney Warns Family.

Capt. Carney, chief of detectives, warned the relatives of Alma Keller yesterday against shrewd coincidence. He said that he had no proof from the family, and it is safe to say that anyone who wishes to obtain the rewards already offered will have to demonstrate the fact that they can deliver the child.

Family Holds To Abduction Theory.

The family is still of the opinion that Alma Keller was kidnapped from her home and is being held for a ransom. Mr. Keller also stated his belief yesterday afternoon, but refused to discuss the matter further. When seen at the brewery yesterday afternoon Frank Fehr said that he had not yet changed his mind from the original belief that she has been kidnapped.

"Nothing has developed to prove the contrary," said Mr. Fehr, "and although not one word has been received from the little girl's abductors, yet that does not prove that she is dead. In such cases it has been known for many months to pass before the kidnappers made their demands. They may be waiting for the excitement to quiet and then they will state their terms."

"Of course I do not discourage the running down of clues and theories, as I may be wrong. At least I will believe that she is not dead until I am convinced that she has really died. Some horrible fate, I do not want to even think that such is the case, and I would have something to do with my opinion."

JAPS AND CHINESE LEAVING HAWAII.

Gov. Fess's Annual Report Shows That Islands Are Prospering Materially.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Hawaii, though losing some of its oriental population by emigration, promises to make up the loss in part by births from parents of that class of immigrants. The departure of Japanese during the fiscal year 1909 far exceeded the arrivals.

Among the immigrants from that country there has been an increase in the percentage of women. The decrease in Chinese due to departure and nonarrivals is largely offset by births, and by the arrival of Chinese children desiring to attend school. These facts are shown in the annual report of Gov. W. P. Frear.

Hawaii had a good year. Imports and exports amounted to $61,946,484. The condition of the laborers is satisfactory. The number of Chinese children desiring to attend school, however, has been a growing disposition, not only to improve it, but to increase the numbers of those who will be citizens and home owners. A large proportion of the work of laborers is by contract. The result is that the great majority, perhaps 90 per cent. of them, receive considerably more than the minimum wages paid to an adult male for ordinary work, such minimum being $18 per month, besides house and lot, fuel, medical attendance and water.

INDIANA WOMAN GIVEN PRISON TERM.

Mrs. Alma Cromwell, Charged With Subornation of Perjury, Sentenced At Laporte.

La Porte, Ind., Dec. 18.—Mrs. Alma Cromwell, who set up her defense that she was suffering from paranoia, was found guilty by a jury of the Circuit Court of subornation of perjury, and Monday will be sentenced to an indeterminate term of years in the Indiana woman's prison.

Mrs. Cromwell is the wife of Clinton Cromwell, a well-to-do farmer, who recently moved here from Niles, Mich., but who is now serving a prison sentence following his conviction a month ago in connection with the same case. Mrs. Cromwell and Mrs. Lillian Rhodes, of Cass County, Mo., and owner of the farm occupied by Mrs. Cromwell, engaged in a fight which resulted in Cromwell's arrest. Orleans Rhodes, a brother of Mrs. Cromwell's, testified in court that Mrs. Rhodes confessed, and claimed he and she were induced by Mrs. Cromwell to testify falsely, as they were four miles from the scene at the time of the fight. Rhodes pleaded guilty and was sent to prison with Cromwell. Coleman received a suspended sentence.

NO NEED TO LEAVE HOME.

It is a serious matter, when the lungs are affected, or the throat, or to a salivary gland, is not only tremendously expensive, but it involves separation from home and the loss of the family. No one can safely return to their homes. Eckman's Alternative is effective in curing bronchitis, asthma and more serious affections of the lungs. No leaving home. No expense. Ask for bottles of Eckman's Alternative at 231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J. Gentlemen: In the fall of 1908 I contracted a very severe cold which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise my throat and my physician then told me I must go to the hospital. I was there for a time I was advised to take Eckman's Alternative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve and the first week in January, 1909, resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now four years since my cure has been effected and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly. I have recommended it to others with excellent results. W. M. FATEM.

RAPID PROGRESS.

CONGRESS SURPRISES PROPHETS BY DOING SOME WORK.

Two Important Measures Passed By the House and More Under Consideration.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Far better progress is being made with legislation in the House than was anticipated. Before Congress convened it was predicted that there would be little or no activity prior to the holiday adjournment, and that the disposition to do but a small amount of business would probably characterize the entire session.

Since the House convened on December 14, however, a great number of important bills and resolutions have been introduced. Two important measures have been passed and a number of others have been reported and are under consideration in the House.

In all, a total of 1,606 House bills, 188 resolutions, ninety-five House joint resolutions and twenty-six concurrent resolutions have been introduced. Two measures for railroad regulation, bearing the name of Representative Enoch G. Wines, have passed the House. Two omnibus pension bills, carrying a total of 467 claims, have also passed.

Two important pieces of legislation are now pending. The District of Columbia appropriation bill and the Panama Canal Government reorganization measure. The army appropriation bill, carrying upwards of $100,000,000, is out of the Military Committee, and the Immigration Committee is preparing to report its bill regulating the "white slave traffic."

KING LEOPOLD'S BODY TAKEN TO BRUSSELS

IMPOSING PROCESSION FROM PAVILION AT LAEKEN.

PRINCESS LOUISE BEGINS FIGHT ON BARONESS VAUGHAN.

LAWYER NOTIFIES THE BANKS.

Brussels, Dec. 18.—The body of the late King Leopold was transferred from the pavilion at Laeken to the palace at Brussels to-night by the light of torches carried by troops acting as guards. The hearse was covered with black drapery. It was surrounded with black plumes and bore the national coat of arms and the coats of arms of the nine provinces.

The car was surrounded by Leopold's grooms and servants. On either side rode the general officers, and the court carriages, which followed, contained Prince Albert and the court dignitaries. As the body was conveyed to the hearse, the batteries fired salvoes and the bells tolled. An enormous crowd witnessed the scene. The cortege proceeded to the palace.

Religious Ceremony Only. Paris, Dec. 18.—A special dispatch to the Figaro from Brussels says that Baron Goffinet, private secretary to the late King of Belgium, denied the report that a civil marriage was performed at the death bed of Leopold, but the Baron admitted that a secret religious marriage probably took place recently, although the King never specifically mentioned the marriage. Should this be the case, however, the marriage would have no legal standing in Belgium and no complications are feared.

Baron Goffinet said further that Baroness Vaughan would bring her children to Belgium, but would return immediately to Brussels, where she would be allowed to remain unless her presence provoked a scandal.

Marriage Not Sanctioned. Rome, Dec. 18.—It was stated officially to-day that the Vatican had nothing to do with the morganatic marriage of the late King Leopold and Baroness Vaughan.

COOLNESS PREVENTS PANIC IN NEW YORK THEATER.

New York, Dec. 18.—While a matinee was going on at the Murray Hill Theater, near Forty-second street, this afternoon, a fire started in one of the dressing rooms and did slight damage before it was extinguished by stage hands and actors. The audience was inclined to be panicky, but "Dixie," by the orchestra, and the assurance of cool heads, prevented a general rush for the exits.

MRS. ROSE COOK BECOMES BRIDE OF CLARENCE MORRISON.

E. D. CALDWELL DIES AT WEST-ERN SPRINGS, ILL.

BODY BEING BROUGHT HOME.

News of the marriage of Mrs. Rose Cook and Clarence Morrison, at Elkhart, Ind., has reached Jeffersonville, the ceremony having been held on Thursday. The bride on Wednesday was divorced from William Eugene Cook, who is now serving a life sentence at the Indiana State prison in Muncie. The bride was originally from Muncie, and through a confession he made in Jeffersonville about two years ago. The bride was originally Miss Rose Hall, a daughter of Alexander Hall, an old soldier, and she met Cook in July, 1901, marrying him on August 31, of the same year. Although Cook had anything but an honest life, his wife remained steadfast toward him, although he became an inmate of the Indiana Reformatory in February, 1906, being sent there to serve from one to three years on the charge of petit larceny.

On the eve of being released from the institution on parole he broke down and told Chaplain W. E. Edgin that he did not want to leave, as there was a crime hanging over him. Previous to making this statement, he had been converted at a revival held in the reformatory. In the presence of W. H. Whitaker, who was then the general superintendent of the institution, and Chaplain Edgin, Cook made a wonderful confession that resulted in his being sent to prison for life. He did not shake Mrs. Cook, although she had at times quarreled frequently with her husband.

In his confession, said that he murdered John E. Perkins on the week following the November election in 1904, near the little town of Granger, by shooting him through the head while he was lying helpless from disease on a bed in his cabin, then sent him to the house to leave the impression Perkins had killed himself rather than to perish in the flames. A part of the money he had had was used to create the impression that he had not been robbed. After the confession was made Cook was taken back to Elkhart, to plead guilty, but when he reached there declined to do so and was tried. He was found guilty by a jury and sent to prison for life.

Dies In Illinois.

A telegram was received yesterday by E. D. Caldwell's sons, a Jeffersonville undertaking firm, to take charge of E. D. Caldwell's body and place it in the vault at Walnut Ridge cemetery. The telegram was sent from Western Springs, Ill., on Friday night, and was signed by Mrs. Ella Morse, a sister of Mr. Caldwell. Particulars of the death are not known, but several persons knew that Mr. Caldwell was in a serious condition from Bright's disease and for some time had been in a sanitarium in Minnesota. Recently, however, he had been removed to the home of Mrs. Brock Jones, a daughter of Mrs. Morse, at Western Springs, and was to have been brought to Jeffersonville to be placed in a hospital.

Mr. Caldwell was widely known around the falls and for several years was connected with a wholesale drug house in Louisville. He finally engaged in business for himself in Jeffersonville, and about twenty-seven years ago married Miss Ora Res, whose home was at Milton, Ky. Mrs. Caldwell finally studied medicine and became connected with her brother, who was for a long time on Fifth street, Louisville, but went to Minneapolis. Mr. Caldwell went there several years ago to join his wife after disposing of his business in Jeffersonville.

Mr. Caldwell was a native of Jeffersonville and was about 60 years old. He was a son of Dr. James G. Caldwell, a pioneer physician who for many years conducted a drug store on Spring street, between Market and Chestnut streets, immediately across the street from the postoffice. The family was a large and influential one, but the only members now left is Mrs. Morse.

Successors To Pneumonia.

The employees of the Government Depot in Jeffersonville were shocked to learn yesterday morning that Miss Agnes B. Beatty, who was stenographer to Maj. Joseph T. Davidson, quartermaster in charge, had died at her home in Louisville from an attack of pneumonia. Some ten days ago Miss Beatty, who was then in good health and spirits, went to Chicago for a visit to friends and returned Sunday, but was feeling too ill on Monday to report for work.

Miss Beatty was a highly regarded young woman and had been connected with the Government Depot, with the exception of about two years, for a long time. She was an expert stenographer and during nearly all of her stay was the only woman clerk at the depot. Several years ago she became subject to the civil service rules and was promoted from time to time until she drew a good salary.

At one period she asked for a transfer to Chicago, which was granted, and she remained there about two years, but when there was a chance to return to Jeffersonville she did so. It was to visit some of the friends she had made while employed there that she went to Chicago on a visit. Miss Beatty made her home with her mother in Louisville and there are two sisters, Miss Katie Beatty and Miss Colla Beatty. A married sister lives in Missouri. Her father died several years ago.

William Russ Dies.

William Sherman Russ, who was a well-known Jeffersonville young man, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Russ, who live at 301 Mechanic street, that city, yesterday morning at 11:15 o'clock, after a long illness from tuberculosis. When he became ill of a bronchial affection the disease did not yield to treatment and he was sent to Denver, Colo., and from there he went to St. Anthony, Idaho. For a time there was hope that his condition might become better, but it did not do so, and he was brought home about two months ago. He then tried the open-air treatment and spent in a tent near the home of his parents. Again there was hope that he was getting better, but this belief lasted only a short time.

Finally the patient reached a point where improvement was regarded as impossible and he became comatose. He died a short time ago. Mr. Russ was born in Jeffersonville on September 12, 1888, and as long as health permitted he was ambitious to do for himself, and when he decided to go to Colorado was employed at the grocery of David H. Rose. He was a young man of the highest character and was a member of the German Methodist church. He also belonged to Kewadin Tribe of Red Men. Besides his parents he is survived by the following sisters and brothers: Miss Emma Russ, Miss Clara Russ,

Pearl—McCuulloch.

Charles Raymond McCulloch, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McCulloch, who reside on the New Albany pike, two miles west of Jeffersonville, was married in Louisville last evening at 6 o'clock to Miss Florence May Pearl, of Regina, Canada. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, 1109 First street, the Rev. Charles I. Truby, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Jeffersonville, officiating. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Cunningham, whose husband holds a responsible position with J. M. Robinson, Norton & Co.

Only the immediate relatives of the pair were present, among them being the parents of the bride and the bride's sister, Miss Jennie Pearl, who came from Canada to witness the marriage. There was no attendant or reception and following the marriage Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch were driven to a pretty little home that has just been completed near the residence of the bridegroom's parents, and which had been furnished ready to receive the young people.

The bridegroom is a well-known young man and his family is one of the leading ones in the vicinity of Jeffersonville. The bride is an accomplished young woman, although not widely known in this city. She was born a year ago Miss Pearl came to Louisville for a visit to her sister and spent considerable of her time with Mrs. Edward McCulloch, aunt of the bridegroom. Before Miss Pearl returned home she was engaged to Mr. McCulloch, and after corresponding for several months the date for the marriage was decided upon. Miss Pearl came to Louisville several weeks ago to arrange for her wedding.

Oxy-Tonic

Not only destroys the toxins resulting from the germs of disease, but places the blood in condition to build up the tissues. It is important for the public to know that they may use this marvelous germicidal preparation without any doubt whatever as to its being harmless. Nor does it contain any drugs or poisons or even alcohol in its makeup. The moment disease sets on no matter by what name it may be called, it interferes with the blood cells, lowering their vitality and thus increasing the danger to life itself. Any remedy which inhibits the production of disease germs or their function, aids nature in destroying them and throwing her off the disease. There never was not will there ever be.

Let the weak and sick give it at least a trial and learn the truth for themselves. For sale at all druggists. Consultation free by mail. Address: The Oxy-Tonic Co., 31 West Illinois St., Chicago, Ill. Distributing Agents: Robinson-Pettit Co., Petar-Neat-Richardson Co.

moderately warm and even temperature, such as that of a plant greenhouse. The feeding of the plants is done by means of a pump which draws the water from the reservoir and sends it to the plants. The plants are kept in a constant state of moisture and are never allowed to dry out. The plants are also kept in a constant state of light and are never allowed to become dark.

The method advised for raising snails is simple and clean. The creatures are kept in pine boxes filled with rich earth, and care must be taken to have all the snails in one place. The snails are fed with a mixture of vegetable matter and a little meat. The creatures possess cannibal tendencies and will destroy any specimens of other species which happen to stray across their path.

Occasionally seed such as is given for food to the snails is planted in a corner of the box, and when half grown seeds, according to expert snail raisers, a tempting appetite to the snails. The seeds are given a delicate flavor to the snails. The snails are fed with a mixture of vegetable matter and a little meat. The creatures possess cannibal tendencies and will destroy any specimens of other species which happen to stray across their path.

Care, it seems, has to be given to the snails, and two inspections a day are required. All scraps of vegetable matter left unattended by the occupants must be removed from the boxes. It is a singular fact that the odor of decomposing matter is fatal to snails.

The proper food consists of clean, tender, fresh bits of leaves

THREE YOUNG MEN CLEAN UP LUNCHROOM.

Bottles, Dishes, Pies and Cakes Fly
Through the Air At Jim Camp's

For a while yesterday morning it looked as though Harry Mass, William Luckey and Raymond O'Connell, running in age from 24 to 36 years, were going to demolish the fixtures of James Campbell's Kentucky Dairy Lunch Room, at 32 West Third street, and scatter the contents of the customers, they began to throw dishes and cutlery bottles through the air, broke plates and glass, and threw pies and cakes and hot cakes about the floor, and drove the clerks and patrons into the street.

When the police arrived, and the chief clerk, the three men entered the lunch room about 12:30 o'clock and became abusive to the other customers. He demonstrated, and claims O'Connell became thrashed at, him and drew out a .38 caliber revolver, made him throw up his hands, while the other men began to throw dishes and pies through the air. For a time it seemed as though the feeding-place of so many hungry business men was about to be wiped out, but the police, by intervening, they could lay their hands on.

One of the clerks succeeded in getting to the telephone and calling the Central police station. Lieut. McMillott, Sergt. Gardner and Patrolman Murray answered the call, but by the time they arrived Immanuel church, Bardston road and Transit avenue. Following the invocation, there will be a special musical programme by the choir, led by the choir, composed of orphans and church boys. The music will be sung a solo, for which an oration will be delivered by Prof. W. H. Bartholomew. The next number will be a solo, which will be sung by the orphans' choir. Then the painting will be unveiled. Short addresses will be made by visiting ministers. The services will close with a song by the congregation, the Lord's Prayer and benediction.

At the Casino.

The West of fifty years ago is vividly recalled in a virile picture drama headed the half week's programme to be shown at the Casino, commencing Saturday. Under the title of "The Indian," a romance is unfolded as thrilling and as gripping as any of the "Frontier" tales of Cooper, and no stage production could equal in realism or wealth of detail the fiery battles, whirlwind riding and wonderful sharp-shooting that figures in this rapid-fire picture play. The scenic effects are superb, and the mounting is correct in every detail.

Cecilian Mass To Be Sung.

The male choir of St. Louis Bertrand church, Sixth street, near St. Catherine street, will celebrate the feast of Christmas day, under the direction of Prof. Joseph Hemmersbach, before services at 10 o'clock, with the singing by the entire male choir. At the

PARISH AND CLUB HOUSE FOR BLACKS.

Addition To Church of Our Merciful Saviour At Eleventh and Walnut Streets.

The directors of the Church of Our Merciful Saviour, a colored house of worship at Eleventh and Walnut streets, belonging to the Episcopal diocese, have arranged to erect a new parish and club house back of their church. The building will be under course of construction by the architect, J. M. Murphy, and may be completed by May. The estimated cost of the building is $15,000. The plan for the structure, as outlined the plans for the structure, it is understood that the building is to be a memorial to the late Bishop Dudley.

The parish-house will represent an expenditure of $7,500 by the time it is ready for occupancy. According to the plans, it will stand a corner of the church, and will have the main entrance on the west side, and two stories and will be constructed of pressed brick.

When completed the parish-house will be a place where the members of the various societies at a meeting hall, cooking school and general assembly building. The funds for the building will be built over and raised by the congregation of the church, but the bulk of the cost will be met by one who does so with publicity.

The men had become frightened and were running. The police did them up and after firing several shots succeeded in capturing them. All three were charged with drunk and disorderly conduct and destroying private property. While O'Connell had an additional charge of committing a riot placed against him.

They were presented in the Police Court yesterday morning and their cases were passed until to-morrow.

PAINTING WILL BE UNVEILED IN CHURCH TO-DAY.

A handsome painting, entitled "Christ's Ascension," from the brush of John A. Muehlbauer, will be unveiled at 1:30 o'clock in the Evangelical church.

REPORT ON CALLING PASTOR WILL BE MADE TO-DAY.

The pulpit committee of the East Baptist church will make its report in regard to calling a pastor at the 10 o'clock morning services to-day. The pulpit has been vacant since the resignation of the Rev. George C. Truher, who took up evangelistic work.

Home-Coming Service.

The Highland Presbyterian church, Highland avenue and Riverside road, will celebrate annual home-coming Sunday morning at 11 o'clock on November 28. A special service will be arranged.

Marriage Licenses.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to the following:

KIDNEY DISEASE IS AN AWFUL AFFLICTION

The uric acid poison that too often permeates the human system and renders it so susceptible to disease, is harmless, as they contain no narcotics, and they give perfect confidence of good results. There has been many a person who trials fatally to so many could be regularly passed off daily by the kidneys—if they are well.

If the kidneys are not well, of course, they cannot perform perfectly the work assigned to them by nature and the result is very quickly shown in weak back, pains in the back, swelling of the ankles and feet, puffiness under the eyes, etc. These are the simple symptoms of kidney trouble, but they are the forerunners of diseased kidneys, and you know kidney disease is an awful thing.

Don't allow the kidneys to get out of order. You wouldn't care to take any chance with having Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gall-stones, and the like, yet that is what you may have and likely will have by neglecting to help the kidneys when the kidneys are weak. The best way we know of to assist nature in restoring the kidneys to normal condition is by the use of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. These wonderful pills are now almost universally used in this country and the results obtained by thousands of people are most gratifying.

It is not a habit-forming medicine, but it cures the kidneys and the bladder. It is not a habit-forming medicine, but it cures the kidneys and the bladder. It is not a habit-forming medicine, but it cures the kidneys and the bladder.

THE OLD ALAMO.

Structure Restored To Original Appearance.

THE COMMERCIAL FRAME SHELL REMOVED.

TEXAS PRESERVES HISTORIC CHAPEL AND FORTRESS.

WHERE BATTLE WAS FOUGHT.

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 18.—(Special.)—The ancient and historic Alamo building and its surroundings have been restored to a good semblance of their original appearance recently by the removal of the wide and unsightly galleries which ran along two sides of the big stone and adobe structure adjoining the chapel. These outside gallery overland journey from Queretaro, Mex., for the purpose of bringing spiritual enlightenment to the tribes of Indians who made this region their hunting ground.

The walls of the original buildings are all that are now standing. The plan of ground, consisting of about four acres, upon which the mission buildings were located, was surrounded by a high stone wall as a means of protecting the white inhabitants against any possible onslaught by the Indians or other varying enemies. In those early days, however, the Indians and the faithful religious workers were on terms of friendship and peace with one another. Practically all of the labor of building the mission edifices was performed by Indians, only the sculptural work being left to better-trained hands. It was not until the troublesome times of the early part of the last century began that the Alamo mission was converted into a military fortress and fort. In some of the stone buildings was stored ammunition, while in others were kept the supplies for the garrison.

Where Battle Was Fought.

The historic battle of the Alamo was not, as is commonly supposed, fought by the Texans from the roof and inside of the chapel altogether. Much of the fighting was done from the roof of the barracks building which has just been restored to its original appearance. The can women were also servants of the Americans. The Texans were commanded by Col. William B. Travis. The fighting force in the garrison was 187 men, but during the battle only 150 were available for duty.

Col. James Bowie was very ill during the siege and battle, but in the last hand-to-hand conflict he raised himself upon his cot and slaughtered several Mexicans. He was killed in bed. David Crockett was another member of the brave band who did terrible execution among the Mexicans before he finally met his death. The Texans killed more than one thousand Mexicans in that battle. Some authorities estimate the loss of the Mexican side as high as 1,500. The siege was begun by the Mexicans on Santa Anna on February 23, 1836, and was ended by the storming of the fortress between midnight and sunrise on March 6.

For many years after the great battle the Alamo, chapel and barracks buildings were used for various private purposes. It was not until 1883 that the chapel was purchased by the State of Texas. The purchase of the barracks building by the State was made in 1895.

TOOK HIS ADVICE.

(London Opinion.) The proprietor of one of the principal firms in the city had remarked that his head clerk, for whom he had a real liking, had for some reason fallen into a great melancholy and though he tried his best, he could not find out what was the matter with the young man.

One day at last the sufferer owned that he was in love.

"Well, marry her," said the chief clerk.

"Oh, but here the young man nearly broke down," she before, one of the best families of the town—the parents will never consent."

"Point your position is good, your name is honorable, they won't refuse. I will draw the girl for you. Does she love you?"

"Perfect! Now, listen to me," said the employer, "leave the ball quietly with me. Joseph, my watchman, will wait for you at the door and drive you to the station. He will ask no questions. When you are out of the way I will see the father and settle everything for you."

"Is that really your advice?" eagerly exclaimed the youth. "Do you want me to do it?"

"Yes, I command you to do it. Now, cheer up."

The next day the clerk proposed the plan to his sweetheart, who made some objections at first but, overcome by his reason, she said at last:

"Well, if he really orders it, I must obey him."

What was the general stupefaction when after the ball, the daughter of the house was missing.

"Mad fool that I was!" exclaimed the suitor's parent. "It was my own daughter."

The next day he wrote:

"Come back; all will be forgiven."

SHOPPING

During Holidays Not Altogether Task of Pleasure.

HOMILY ON PRESENT-BUYING AND ITS DIFFICULTIES.

FRANKFORT TO BE SCENE OF MANY ENTERTAINMENTS.

SOCIAL NOTES OF CAPITAL

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 19. "There's the football to buy for our Johnny. The duty for Sister Sue; The skates for her brother, the shawl for grandmother. The stockings for old Aunt Lou. The box of cigars for father. Something for Cousin Ray—his gossamer, graceful Christmas only one week away."

All Christmas, like all Gaul, is divided into three parts—the shopper, the shopper (to coin a word) and the shopper.

The first has all the trouble and the second gets all the sympathy and the last named gets all the presents.

So far, the "shopper" has everything her way. Rules are laid down telling us when and where to buy; at what hours to enter the store and how and in what manner to approach the shopper.

The gentleman or the lady of the Christmas counter never stops to think that here is a mighty mother who has been beating up black cake for a big family and a score of relatives for the past week; who arose early and had the family horses hitched up and dressed the two little girls to stay with a neighbor, but had to bring the smallest of the incorrigible of three along to keep him from burning the house down in her absence. She tries to obey all the rules laid down for the shopper and she timidly and, we may add, unapproachably, approaches the counter.

The electric lights are glaring, the scramble something fearful, the mechanical toys all wound up, the music boxes playing popular airs and the clerk behind the counter far from affable.

Poor woman—no wonder she goes home with the wrong thing for Mabel, Jennie and John, and when she has soundly spanked the young rascal who accompanied her and sent him to bed and requested the head of the house to smoke his after-dinner pipe in the adjoining room—which does not add to the peace of the cross blonde lady behind the counter her head aches a bit more.

No, this didn't occur in Frankfort—it did occur in a city where many Frankforters do most of their shopping.

Christmas Spirit Prevails.

The Christmas spirit is over all things here in the capital of Kentucky. The calendar is the longest, the year would be longer, but this year there are but seven days in a week, and seven functions per day.

Besides the cotillions, the Germans the dances and luncheons, the bridge and euchre parties for Miss Cornelia Gordon and her three charming college chums, the Christmas Club, the Christmas tree, the Christmas gifts, and the Christmas spirit, there will be many other things for the visitors during the three weeks holiday.

Miss Elsie Dugdale, who is the hostess of the Capital Hotel, and Miss Elsie Montgomery's dance at the Country Club, there is to be, if we may say so, a wedding or two.

Santa Claus (or Old Nick) will send out, if not three good-looking society belles, at least three good-looking young women, who will be engaged to their Christmas stockings. This is in the language of the small boy, "going some" for Frankfort.

Miss Anne Baker will entertain for Miss Gordon and her guests with a bridge party at her home on West Main street, and Miss Genevieve and Edith Posey will give them a buffet luncheon.

Mrs. Hiram Berry will give a delightful euchre party for these same much-entertained young women, and Mrs. Berry has a cotillion at the Capital Hotel and a reception for them at her suburban home, "Juniper Hill."

New Bridge Club.

Most of the women in the Capital of Kentucky are what you would call "Jiners." That is to say that they all belong to some kind of a club, the sewing and missionary society.

Last year this "Jining" business was at its height. To-day there is a slight decrease in "Jining" clubs.

Last year we had a crackerjack large bridge club, composed of twenty-four members. Out of the remnants of the club Mrs. Shackelford has reorganized another bridge club, and has twelve of the best whist players in Frankfort in it.

The initial meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. Shackelford's pretty home on Central avenue. The following composed the club:

Mrs. Sam Shackelford, Mrs. Weinsinger Lindsey, Mrs. W. F. Dandridge, Mrs. Tom Hall, Mrs. Guy Briggs, Mrs. F. G. Gray, Mrs. A. A. Vance, Mrs. John W. Rodman, Mrs. A. D. Martin, Mrs. John Glover South, Mrs. John Milton and Mrs. Jack Stewart.

Mrs. Shackelford entertained the club this week and after a stirring game served a delicious luncheon. Mrs. Vance won the prize, a lovely Christmas box.

Meeting of the Assembly Ball Club.

No one in Kentucky remembers when the Assembly Ball Club came into existence. That's something the oldest inhabitants will not care to confess— "they say" it was over 100 years ago. So, you see, we have a hard time living up to its prestige and its glory—old things for old blessings and old "balls" have a way of brightening as they take their flight. It is the one thing during the winter months when the General Assembly is with us that never fails. It has always been useful in entertaining this body of legislators, and this winter will be on a wider and a better scale than ever before.

The first dance will be given at the Capital Hotel on January 6, and will be followed by one each week during the winter. The new officers elected were: Mr. Preston Graham, president; Mr. George B. Harper, vice president, and J. E. Blanton, secretary-treasurer.

A Christmas Birthday Party.

Nothing is so pretty as a Christmas party, especially when it is a child's Christmas party. And that is what Master Udotho Sneed Bradley had last Friday afternoon—the pretties child's birthday party imaginable.

For Chicago Visitors.

One of the pretties affairs of last week was Miss Todd Estell's birthday dinner for her Chicago visitor. It was in honor of Mr. L. W. Moody and a dozen guests were invited to dine with him. The dining-room and table were decorated in Richmond roses and holly and an appetizing nine-course dinner served.

The Lofting Club Entertained.

Mrs. W. S. Farmer was the Lofting Club's hostess last week and her home was rich with Christmas roses, Christmas holly and mistletoe for the occasion. The dining-room was especially effective in the crimson roses and holly. The

Fifty Years of Happiness Will Be Celebrated At the Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Gilman Will Be Guests of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Broadway Christian Church Tuesday Night—Life of Work For Others.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Gilman are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday night at the Broadway Christian church. Invitations embossed in gold have been sent out to more than 200 friends of the couple.

The celebration will be held in the parlors of the Broadway Christian church, on Broadway, between Floyd and Preston streets, and the arrangements are in charge of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. Just what the nature of the celebration will be is a carefully guarded secret, but the fact that the women have been planning and preparing for several weeks, gives assurance that the celebration tendered will be a fitting tribute of the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Gilman are held by their host of friends.

Son of a Pioneer.

James D. Gilman is 77 years of age and his wife, Mrs. Sallie B. Gilman, has passed her 65th birthday anniversary. Mr. Gilman is the son of Daniel Gilman, the English that he moved to Kentucky and began to till the soil and raise fine cattle. In this he enjoyed more than local fame.

Mrs. Gilman before her marriage was Miss Sallie B. Everhart, daughter of Daniel E. Everhart, also a prominent stock raiser. She was born on her father's 1,600-acre plantation near Lebanon, and although she was a most retiring miss, was noted for the agility with which she could ride her father's horses.

Horse Starts a Romance.

To this love for beautiful horses Mr. Gilman attributes the fact that Miss Everhart became his wife. He tells the following story: When a dashing black horse from his father's stable won the first prize at the Lexington Fair, Miss Everhart fell so much in love with the beautiful animal that she was favorably impressed with its owner. At this fair Mrs. Gilman first met, and they at once became good friends. Their wedding took place at the bride's home at Lebanon on December 22, 1859. After living at the Gilman home, at advertising department. He remained in this capacity for eleven years, until the Western Recorder induced him to again return to them, where he has since been employed.

Help For Little Ones.

From his connection with these various papers, Mr. Gilman has acquired a wide circle of friends among the business men and although he has always been a man actively engaged in business affairs, both he and his wife have never missed an opportunity to aid others. In fact this has been the object of their lives. They have had but one child to come to their home and this, a little girl, Elizabeth Louise, died when only 6 months old. For this reason they have felt it their duty to devote their affections and time to the betterment of other unfortunate little ones.

Active In Church Work.

Both Mr. Gilman and his wife have been actively engaged in the work of the Broadway Christian church during their residence in Louisville. Mr. Gilman has held many of the official positions in that church and Mrs. Gilman has always been a leader in the various movements undertaken by the women. Despite their advanced years, weather is never too cold or inclement for them to attend services on Sunday and prayer-meeting on Wednesday evening. However, their religion is not wholly of the church-going sort for they are prayerful in their own homes, and working to make the world better and happier.

Supporters of Gospel Mission.

The kindly couple were among the founders of the Union Gospel Mission, that is doing so much to bring help to the needy. In the times of its hardest struggles they were always found at the front fighting for its life. Now that the people of Louisville are aware of the good that the mission is doing and its path to success is assured, Mr. and Mrs. Gilman can feel that their labors are greatly responsible for the men and women that it is restoring to good citizenship.

This is not the only charity, however, in which they are interested, for in any place they can do good they are always to be found. Without respect to creed or color, they are laboring to the best of their means in the cause of the Master. The Associated Charities is also one of their chief interests and Mrs. Gilman is in charge of one of the departments in this work.

When seen at their apartments at 215 East Walnut street, Mr. Gilman was seated before a roaring fire in a great open fireplace. "Why, we have found out how to live," said Mr. Gilman when asked how he and Mrs. Gilman had managed to remain so carefree and happy. "We have learned that right living is the only happy way to live. I have been industrious and at the same time have been economical, not stingy. In this way we have been able to enjoy ourselves and at the same time help others. Wife and I are happy as two larks."

Her Coy Advice.

"Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" inquired Priscilla.

"Be your own social secretary."

FIRST CHRISTMAS BALL

Given Friday Evening By Mr. and Mrs. Hiram P. Roberts in the Galt House For their Debutante Daughter, Miss Hettie Roberts.

THE first ball of the Christmas season was a beautiful affair given at the Galt House Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs.
Hiram P. Roberts to introduce their attractive debutante daughter, Miss Hettie Roberts.

The decorations were in red, and everything to the smallest detail was artistically carried out with poinsettia
flowers and Southern smilax.

The parlor floor of the Galt House was used for the entertainment. The long hall was a bower of green, the chandeliers being garlanded with green and the columns wreathed in garlands of Southern smilax, starred with poinsettia. Borders of bay trees ran down along the sides of the hall, decorated with poinsettias.

The ballroom, with the red glow of the decorations, presented a brilliant picture. Extending across the room, connecting the several lines of chandeliers, were garlands of Southern smilax and draped with clusters of poinsettia and smilax.

Each chandelier was covered with red and thickly studded with poinsettia flowers. The side walls were decorated with clusters of poinsettia and smilax.
In every window were potted needle pines and poinsettias.

The musicians were seated at the far end of the room behind a screen of Southern smilax, starred with poinsettias, in front of which were placed ferns, alternating with palms.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and Miss Roberts, who were assisted by their house guests, Miss Grace Handley, of New York, and Miss Nellie Hatt, of Toledo, received their guests in the large drawing-room. The doorways and windows were draped in Southern smilax and clusters of poinsettia, a charming part of the decorations were the flowers which had been sent Miss Roberts in honor of her formal debut.

The supper was served on the same floor. The supper room had a frieze of Southern smilax around the walls, and garlands of the green hung over the curtains with clusters of poinsettia.

The guests were seated at small tables, with one large round table in the center of one of the rooms, for Miss Roberts and thirty of her intimate friends. Miss Roberts' table had a wreath of American Beauty roses surrounded by a wreath of holly, and around the centerpiece was a circle of silver candlesticks with red tapers shaded in red. The small tables were also decorated in American Beauty roses and holly, with candlesticks holding red tapers shaded in red.

STATUARY HALL.

"Standing Room Only" Will Soon Be Out.

THE MARBLE FAMILY ALREADY MUCH CROWDED.

KENTUCKY GRACE AND BEAUTY CHARMING WASHINGTON.

THE TAFTIAN INNOVATIONS.

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)

Washington, Dec. 17.—I suppose these are the statutory grounds of the Capitol, a young and female tourist flippantly observed the other day, as she entered that chamber of the great national legislative building, in ancient days the House of Representatives, now relegated to the sculptured presences of our mighty dead. And some of the staid gentlemen in Statuary Hall might dead, indeed—mighty dead!

The "Standing Room Only" sign will soon have to be hung in Statuary Hall, for fast is the august chamber of the dead departed, getting filled with steady boarders. There's only one lady in the lot—Miss Frances E. Willard, you remember. Every State is allowed space for the posthumous statue of two of her national celebrities, which makes accommodations pretty close. And still they come.

Among these present in chiseled alabaster in the National Hall of Fame is Robert Fulton—Robert Fulton is the gentleman who didn't happen to invent the first steamship, John Fitch, of Bardonia, Ky., was of Connecticut, did that—a sort of Cook and Perry mixup, Columbus and America's Vesputi and things of that sort. But Bob got all the press notices and the mortuary fame, and there he stands for posterity to gaze at, holding a little model of the Clermont in his hand, as an evidence of good faith.

Fame On Its Face.

Two urethra the other day, dawdling through the Capitol, gazed before the Fulton statue. "Robert Fulton," mused one, reading the inscription, "who in thunder was Robert Fulton?"

"Oh! don't you know?" explained the other with superior enlightenment. "Robert Fulton was the guy who invented rubber shoes. Don't you see his feet are of 'em in his hand right now. He must have lost the mate to it!"

A notable addition to the galaxy of greases will be made on January 11, when the marble, full-length figure of Gen. Lew Wallace, with distinguished credentials, will be unveiled in Statuary Hall, completing Indiana's quota—Oliver P. Morton, another famous Hoosier, having been sculptured previously there for many a day.

The Wallace statue, in white Italian marble, showing the noted soldier-author standing in the uniform of Major General of the Union army, is the work of the sculptor Daniel O'Connell, of Paris. It will very shortly be shipped to Washington. Gov. Marshall will be present at the ceremonies, Senator Beveridge, George Aldre, Mr. Henry Wallace, son of the dead hero of the late war, and a host of other notables. Lew Wallace, third grandson of the Indiana diplomat-soldier-author, will pull the cord that will release the flag draped around the statue.

The week containing January 11 will be essentially Wallace week in Washington. The great spectacular production of Gen. Wallace's finest work will be put on at a lot of theaters. There will be a warm and cozy reception at the Indiana Society, the largest State organization in Washington, will give a splendid ball and reception at the Arlington Hotel, and all Hoosiers will be as happy as the week is long.

Ben Hur. All Right.

While there has been differences of opinion as to the wisdom of selecting Gen. Lew Wallace as the preeminent Indian of the nation, as long as President Harrison was absent from Statuary Hall, there's a cordial public unanimity that Ben Hur is right. The book in the vulgar mind has overshadowed the author, with a frequent confusion of identities of the two.

Novels "Ben Hur" are constantly asked for at the Public Library here, the magic of the name being still undimmed.

Somebody once said that maybe there was a Virginian not descended from Eleventh of Massachusetts, a Texas judge of hickory, an Indian who hadn't written a famous novel—but he'd never struck one yet!

"Ben Hur" was the last book read by President Garfield just before his assassination. He wrote the author a cordial appreciation of the work. It is said to have secured the General's diplomatic post in Turkey. It has been translated into almost every language.

Gen. Wallace's Friend.

One of the courtly gentlemen of Washington is Capt. John B. McGraw, formerly of Indianapolis, captain of the Capitol police force. Capt. McGraw has principal charge of the Wallace unveiling ceremonies. He is a close friend of Gen. Wallace, serving under him in the Eleventh Indiana Volunteers during the late war. Capt. McGraw was a member of the Indiana National Guard at the breaking out of the war.

Seven of the survivors of the Old Eleventh Indiana are now living in Washington. Capt. John Macaulay, proprietor of Macaulay's Theatre, Louisville, was drum major, adjutant and captain in the Eleventh. Capt. Macaulay expects to be present at the unveiling ceremonies.

Calhoun Has Place.

John C. Calhoun has just been added to the guest list in the National Hall of Fame, with his unveiling booked for the near future. Idaho will celebrate in Statuary Hall on January 15, with numerous ceremonies, over the late Senator Shoup, of that state. The posthumous population increases rapidly. Virginia, who enjoys the distinction of having contributed Washington to the Hall of Fame as the first of her quota of celebrities, threatens to provide the state of the First of the Union, if the statue of Robert E. Lee, provided for her second offering, is denied admission. The statue of the Confederate leader, cast in bronze, the work of Edward V. Valentine, of Richmond, who is famous for the recumbent statue of the late President Grant, is the full dress uniform that he wore at the surrender at Appomattox, now in the Confederate Museum in Richmond. The military order of the Loyal Legion of Michigan protests against the admission into Statuary Hall of the statue in Confederate uniform.

Gen. Lee's Statue.

The hands of the statue of Gen. Lee are modeled after those of his own son, Col. R. E. Lee, Jr. The sculptor took the dead hero of the late war, and a host of other notables. Lew Wallace, third grandson of the Indiana diplomat-soldier-author, will pull the cord that will release the flag draped around the statue.

The Washington statue, modeled by the famous Houdon, that stands in Statuary Hall, is only in plaster. Virginia will have it cast in bronze. If the statue is admitted, it will be the first of its kind in the nation. The statue of Lee is a copy of the original, which is in the possession of the family of the late General. The statue of Lee is a copy of the original, which is in the possession of the family of the late General.

THIS STORE
OPEN EVENINGS
Until Christmas.Timely Christmas
Suggestions
For Your Consideration.

The holidays are almost here and it is with the purpose of helping in the solution of the gift problem that we are publishing this Christmas news from our store. The splendid readiness of our beautiful new stocks really makes shopping a pleasure. The store is on tip-toe to serve your promptly and well. The question of what to get for the gentleman fades away as soon as you enter our doors.

STORY OF THE GIRL WHO CAME BACK

She was looking for lingerie—fine under-muslins. She liked what she saw, but she "wasn't just sure," and so she went off to survey the entire field. She came back and purchased a large bill. "No-where else," she said, "have we found such variety and loveliness at these prices." It is a story that points its own moral, and we need add nothing to it except to say that our Paris Lingerie begins at 40c and goes up to whatever price you wish to pay. Elaborate showing of Christmas Underwear, Bridal Sets, Gowns, Corsets, Covers, Skirts, Combination Suits, Drawers and Slips at 40c to $25.00.

ARISTOCRATIC;
SO MILITARY

Evening and Opera Capes give an "air of dignity" to milady. Made of soft, rich materials, with beautiful "drapery" qualities; exclusive designs of the season; makes an elegant gift; special fine at $10.00.

SOME WOMEN
LOOK WELL

No matter what they wear. This can be truly said of the woman who "dons a kimono." There is freedom and relief in wearing a garment of this character. We have many very novel and clever ideas in this kimono and negligee apparel—a sort of style trend just as marked as in fashionable outer-wear. Beautiful Kimonos in Cheney Bros' silks and floral-figured satins and messalines at $2.95 to $25.00. Wouldn't this suit her for Christmas?

CORSET EXPERIENCES.

An Artist's Wife Gets Help In Our Corset Section

One day a charming woman came to our corset specialist. "My husband says I look so dumpy and fat," she sighed. "I have been wearing So-and-So's corset, but perhaps you have something to tell me better." The corset specialist looked at her carefully. She was clinging to the wasp-waist idea, enough to spoil the good effect of the best Paris gown. We told her so. We fitted her in a long, straight corset and helped her to choose the right sort of gown in the Women's Costume section. How she did astonish her husband that day! Order any of the following makes: La Marguerite, La Premier, Justrite or Kaho, from $1.00 to $6.00.

BEVERIDGE'S DANDER IS UP.

Indianapolis, Dec. 18. — (Special.) — Three days have elapsed since the Supreme Court of Indiana declared the county option law constitutional, thereby clinching the hold of the anti-saloon forces on the "dry" territory of the State, but the Democratic leaders have not yet discovered that the decision has in any way injured their chances for victory in 1910. On the contrary, they are better, based on a number of conferences and long-distance telephone messages with district and county leaders, is that the chances have been bettered.

The unpopularity of the county option law in communities where it is being tried is the element in the situation which has prevented the Democrats from feeling nonplussed at the outcome of the interesting case. While in dozens of communities which have voted "dry" there was a hope expressed that the law would be upheld, it was not because the law was popular, but because the residents felt that a sudden change back to a "wet" condi-

THAT'S SO
BUSY AS BEES
In the Girls' Store—Why?

There are thousands of garments now being offered on Fourth avenue that those appreciating proper styles would not want at any price.

Here you will find the correct, refined things that smart dressers desire.

CAN MAKE WAISTS FOR MUCH LESS.

A few days ago you may have noticed them in the window marked at $10—White and Black Net Waists, perfectly charming—for the Christmas week they'll be sold at $5—a stylish waist for afternoon and theater wear.

By the way, when it comes to waists there is no accounting for woman's taste. Some prefer LINGERIE WAISTS the year around, because they consider them healthy. And they are. For such we have planned selling a $5 waist for $3. Others must have taffeta, messaline and chiffon waists, which we are selling at $3 and $5, worth actually double.

BLIZZARD
Or No Blizzard, Women
Wear Furs.

A woman who doesn't look interesting in furs is hopeless. There is something wonderfully softening and brightening about a rich, glossy fur that gives an added charm to any face.

Here may be found a marvelously complete assortment of Furs, from the popular priced Neckpieces and Muffs up to the most luxurious sets of ermine, black lynx, fox and mink.

Black Belgian Lynx Pillow Muffs, worth $5, for $2.95. Natural Gray Squirrel Long Throws for $5.00. Isabella Fox Shawls, very handsome, with heads and tails, at $7.50. Pointed Wolf Sets for $22.50. Black Lynx Sets, worth $100, for $65.

Splendid line of Children's Sets from 95c to $10.00. Furs make an ideal Christmas gift.

KNIT GOODS.

These are the days when women and girls like to get out into the sunshine, breathe deep of the fresh air, and though it may be a bit chilly they can go merrily, knit-clad, and laugh at the wind. See the Wool-Knit Fascinators—cost only 25c and 50c, and the Wool-Knit Petticoats, so sensible at 25c and 45c.

They wear better than silk, and you can't tell the difference from silk. Some-how women like to wear "em; there is a "rustle and swish" that puts activity into a woman's walk. We will sell this week a genuine Hydegrade Heather-bloom Petticoat, colors and black, valued at $3.00, for $1.69.

holding it. The Democratic leaders believe that what they have to offer will more nearly meet the popular demand than that offered by the Republicans, and are inclined to believe that the decision of the court has strengthened their positions.

Harmony and Organization. "Harmony" was the keynote of the Democratic district chairmen of the State who gathered in Indianapolis last week primarily to select dates for choosing district chairmen for the next campaign, and secondarily to get their heads together on the thousand and one things which interested politicians on the eve of a campaign. After the conference it was pretty fairly established that Tom Taggart is one of the biggest, if not the biggest, Democrats in the State, and that a surprisingly large number of Democrats are perfectly content for him to remain big. While there were evinced a number of petty differences, virtually all of them disappeared before the "harmony" pressure, and a number of Democrats who had it in their heads that they would like to be the big thing in the party circles next year, went home satisfied to take second places. It is now virtually conceded that Taggart will name the next State chairman, and that almost all the Democrats are willing that he should.

Is Willing To Regulate. Indiana has for several months been ready for the adoption of a liquor law that will properly regulate the liquor traffic. She has found that prohibition doesn't prohibit, and is willing to give up the fight on that score. In spite of the fact that the Anti-Saloon League is preparing at this time to attempt to force a State-wide prohibition plank into the next Republican State platform, the Democrats are in a position to offer this regulation, consisting of high license, and retaining possibly the township and ward remonstrance provisions of the Moore law. The Republicans, on the other hand, are in position to do nothing except place in their official O. K. on the county option law and the decision of the court up-

Early Examinations. Governor Marshall has listened to the demand of the townships, cities and counties of the State in their call for early examinations under the new accounting law and has withdrawn his objection to placing an approximate one hundred examiners at work throughout the State.

Women Can Assist In Taking Census. Supervisor Reed informed that he can consider applications from the Fair Sex.

First District Matters. SHE WORE A Beautiful Gown.

And everybody who saw her murmured under their breath—"Isn't she stunning to-night!" For she was appearing for the first time in one of our new dresses of Soft Messaline, which we show at $20, $25 and $30.

SHALL WOMEN VOTE?

Women's Rights—Discussed
By One Who Knows.

Everything a woman does should be right. If it isn't right we should think it's right anyway! That's what men have been doing since Adam first indured Eve's opinion on the apple question. Now, just look at this thing in a sane and sensible way. Everyone knows it is a woman's inalienable right to be pretty, to be happy, to wear becoming clothes, to be admired by all and beloved by one. Take her to the "Style Shop" 425 Fourth avenue, and spend a couple of hours strolling about with her. Start in with the Millinery Department. Then take her to the Suit and Costume Section. Have her choose a tailored waist, a skirt and sweater. Let her pick out anything she wants. That's a woman's right. Then send her home and when you get there at night she'll have her hat dressed a new way that makes her look ten years younger and she won't mind a bit if you tell her so. She'll not care to be mixed up with the crowd at the polls, but there will be one man who will be glad to have her step at home while he does the voting. Every woman has a "right" have a man who feels that way about her. (Applause by the women.)

WEDDED
After Many Years Wins
At Last.

For long years "Style" looked with disdain upon any overtures which "Service" made to her. She held herself aloof from all things practical, but "Service" persevered, and "Style" has had a change of heart—"Service" has finally won her. That is why some of the smartest and cleverest dress and street skirts are also the most serviceable. "Style and Service" have joined forces. May their wedded life be long and happy. Those Beautiful Skirts, of elegant materials and worth $10.00, only cost you $5.00. Excellent gifts.

HOW EASY IT IS TO DRESS WELL ON LITTLE MONEY

Is the First Thought Which Will Flit Through a Woman's Mind When She Sees These Suits For $18.00.

But she will have to make up her mind quickly if she wishes to secure one of these particular suits, for there are but 150 left in this lot on sale to-morrow. Do you know they are good value at $30, and if ordered from a tailor they would cost you fully $40, and possibly $50? They have discovered that fact from experience. Then why squander your currency when there are so many demands at this season of the year? Strictly tailor made, in wide-waisted serges, broadcloths and satin lined, in the new shades. When you wear one of these clever suits, no one will imagine for a minute that you paid so small a sum as $18.

There are two other lots equally attractive: $25 suits for $14.95, and $20 suits for $9.95. See them. To fore-stall January reductions, we will take time by the forelock. All our handsome broadcloths and wide-waisted serges, that regularly sell at $40, $50 and $55, from now till Christmas, this lot of nearly 500 charming suits, that you have often stood and admired in our windows, select your choice at $30. Would strongly advise coming to-morrow and inspect them, and you'll come to the conclusion that they outrank and outflank anything heretofore offered at this extremely low price.

CHIEFLY
LEGAL ADVICE

A certain prominent lawyer of Louisville is in the habit of lecturing his fee staff from the junior partner down, and Tommy, the office boy, comes in for his full share of the admonition. That his words were appreciated was made evident to the lawyer by a conversation between Tommy and another office boy on the same floor which he recently overheard.

WHAT IS HOME
WITHOUT A BABY

Pity the homeless abode of babyhood. No prattling, sweet darling. Sad, indeed! The "see pet" in the home gives more sunshine than all other attractions combined. Give baby a good Christmas. Inspect our Infants' Department. Beautiful caps and bonnets, slips and coats so cute. Ranging from 25c to $5.

PARTY FROCKS

HUGE ADDITION
To Plant of the Kentucky
Electric Company.

OVER A QUARTER OF A MILLION TO BE SPENT.

CURRENT CAPACITY WILL BE MORE THAN DOUBLED.

MAY BEGIN WORK IN FEBRUARY
Plans for a new power station to cost more than a quarter of a million have been perfected by the officers and directors of the Kentucky Electric Company. The new plant will be erected on a site immediately back of the large power station on Washington street, between Second street and Third avenue. It will face the Ohio river and will probably be completed by next fall. According to Robert E. Hughes, the president of the Kentucky Electric Company, work will begin on the new station as soon as the twin tunnels running underground from the river to the site are finished. A large force of men have been at work on these subways for several weeks, during which time great headway has been made. Mr. Hughes expects to see them ready for use by May 1. It is probable, however, that the company will be able to begin work on the new station by the latter part of February.

MARVELOUS!

This quotation you hear frequently in reference to our store. In a short space of time this shop has been transformed from a common-place establishment to a "PALACE OF FASHION." What has done it all? # CHRISTMAS PRESENTS OF THE FRENCH ACADEMY

Virtue Prizes For Humble Men and Women Awarded by the Forty Immortals.

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)
PARIS, Dec. 7.—Just before Christmas every year, the Forty Immortals of the French Academy meet in solemn, public convocation, to give away money.

Eight thousand francs ($12,000) they gave last week to Henri Rollet, a broken-down Paris lawyer; 5,000 francs they gave to Widow Marie Deulleit, near Cahors; 3,000 francs to Julie Francon, an old maid of Bourg-Argental; 3,000 francs to Marie Lina, another old maid, of Cahors.

And so on, 3,000 francs, 2,000 francs, 1,500 francs, 1,000 francs, 500 francs—the list reads like a lottery drawing; in all, 116 big cash Christmas gifts to men and women over all France, whom these academicians never saw.

Why did the most elegant and aristocratic audience of all Paris thunder applause, with tears in their eyes, when the Vicomte de Vogue read out the name: "Laurentine Armenton, 1,500 francs?"

Has Laurentine written poetry, painted pictures, explored, invented, discovered or done an heroic, brilliant act? Is she beautiful and charming?

No, Laurentine, once fair, is close to fading. She has awaked, after fifteen years of sordid toil, to something of mild joy and peace, because a brave man waited for her, but that is a mere accident.

Laurentine gets 1,500 francs for merely being good, and so the others, worn with years, who have no one waiting for them. These cash surprise-gifts are strange, touching, "Virtue Prizes" of the French Academy, instituted over 160 years ago by Robert August, Baron de Montyon, Governor of Provence in 1783, State Councillor in 1775 and Chancellor of the Comte d'Artois (Charles X.) in 1789. He amassed great fortune in the public service, emigrated to England in the Revolution, returned in 1815, and lived until 1820, always occupied in good works.

Baron de Montyon, in his will, left money at interest to the French Academy in trust to pay money prizes annually to poor French persons having accomplished the most virtuous action prolonging itself over the two preceding years.

Every Christmas there are nineteen subjects of awards. Other French philanthropists admired the plan and swelled the funds, which bear their names, and these funds run into the millions; the Souriau prize; the Marie Lasne prize, the Honore de Sussy prize, and so on. Gift-edged investments bearing steady interest, they send forth streams of gold that never dry or vary.

Santa Claus On the Rural Route.

THE really up-to-date Santa Claus is the rural free delivery carrier. He it is who brings Christmas presents to the farmers and their children all over the country.

One can easily imagine what eagerness and delight the young folks look forward to his coming on the great holiday of the year.

On all other holidays the delivery service in rural districts is suspended, but on Christmas day, by special order of the Post-office Department, the carrier is obliged to make his customary round, visiting every dwelling on his route. As may well be supposed, his wagon is filled to overflowing with parcels containing gifts. It is a big day's work for him, and he may grumble a bit about it, but all the same he enjoys playing Santa Claus. Very pleasant is to distribute the welcome bundles and see so many happy, smiling faces.

Farmsteads are commonly located at some distance from the main road along which the carrier passes, and so it often happens that the carrier, instead of stopping at a house, merely pauses to deposit the mail at a box conveniently placed by the roadside. There may, indeed, be a dozen or more of such boxes at crossroads, representing as many different households. But on Christmas day the children (whose business it ordinarily is to collect the mail from the boxes) are sure to be on hand and waiting for the packages they so confidently expect.

It is lots of fun. The carrier, too, is not himself forgotten on this holiday occasion. Nearly everybody remembers him in some appreciable and substantial way. For he is always a popular man; everyone likes him, and on Christmas day especially, in his capacity of Santa Claus, he finds himself beloved.

One farmer's wife has a peck of apples for him; another, a couple of chickens; a third, a gallon of cider, and a fourth a bushel of potatoes. And so on. The children are sure to be on hand, and with his parcels delivered, he will find his wagon almost as full as when it started.

Awarding the Prizes.

"We meet to abase ourselves before a hundred living, breathing saints!" said the Vicomte de Vogue, the orator of this year. "I have always shrunk from this task," he continued. "Who has not felt shame and pain on hearing a professional politician orate over the grave of a hero! It seems to me almost as immodest and profane for mere bookmakers, in the pomp of an academic session, not to talk letters, but to measure virtues, weigh transcendent merits, and distribute crowns to those whose lives we would do better to humbly meditate in silence!"

The Vicomte de Vogue told how he shut himself up with the report of the virtue prizes committee and its documents. Yearly, he began to glance through letters and certificates of every form and handwriting, of all degrees of ignorance and education. After fifteen minutes he was ravished! In the old times they would have made saints of such superhuman creatures!

A Daughter's Sacrifice.

Listen to the tale of Laurentine Armenton, seventh of a family of seventeen children. The youngest being stolen by gypsies, the mother went crazy. While the father earned food in his fields, Laurentine took direction of the household. During ten years, alone, she cared for, cooked for, dressed and brought up fourteen children; during five years more, when all had grown away, grown up, she stayed and cared for her demented mother. For ten her wedding portion, it is only that her mother does not need her, having at last died.

Henri Rollet, the Paris lawyer, neglected his practice to rescue wayward boys from the Police Courts. He has been at it all his life, and has a record of 2,000 budding apaches turned safely into the French army as loyal young soldiers.

The widow Deulleit took up the work of Father Robert, who, as a young man, inherited a lonely house in the gorge of Aveyron. There, one by one, he collected all the crippled, epileptic and rickety children of the surrounding peasantry. To-day 500 incurables live in the house and its annexes. An old mill has been transformed into a weaving factory, making the little colony almost self-sustaining. The peasant, Robert, recently died—a saint, according to the whole countryside; and the widow Deulleit takes the 5,000 francs as his successor.

When only 7 years old Marie Lina walked fourteen miles a day for school, at Cahors. Working in the fields, she studied at night and conducted classes for her comrades. During twenty years she was the unpaid, unofficial school teacher of the remote mountain commune of Bourg-Argental. Every state appointment and salary. Every dollar of this salary she has spent in clothing and giving lunches to poor little pupils.

Julie Francon, the old maid of Bourg-Argental, supported her infirm parents, and in them we find a new witness to the saying of Montaigne, that naïve ignorance and perfect science sometimes run across each other in the truth. The French Academy would not faint its dignity among all those who serve the ideal it should neglect the best."

Praise For a Servant.

To praise an aged servant girl, Yvonne Grey, who, working without wages twenty years, buried her own parents and brought up their five little children, the Vicomte de Vogue humbly bowed the head, the statesman, savant and philosopher. Yvonne the hero and the martyr fell short of Yvonne's merit.

"Doubtless there is relationship between the great thought and the beautiful act," said the immortal, "yet the noblest action does but invite, and if a great work suffices to show genius, a single beautiful act is not sufficient to realize virtue. Heroism, martyrdom even, may be of momentary virtue, but duration!"

Xmas Presents That Go Astray.

IT is a melancholy thing to consider that every year about 100,000 Christmas gifts sent through the mails in this country are lost and never delivered. One-fourth of all the packages that find their way to the Dead Letter Office at Washington in the course of a year are Christmas presents. And it may be added, the great bulk of the lost parcels addressed to foreign countries consist of Christmas gifts—the reason being that very commonly such packages are not mailed in accordance with the requirements of the law.

There are two ways to send a parcel abroad. It may go (with full prepayment) at the international letter rate, which is 6 cents for the first ounce and 3 cents for each additional ounce—though for England or Germany it requires only 2 cents an ounce. Or it may go by parcels post—in which case a formal customs declaration, properly executed by the sender at a post-office, must be attached to it, with prepayment at 12 cents a pound or fraction thereof. If sent to Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador, or Peru, it must be prepaid at 20 cents an ounce. But there are a few countries, Russia being one of them, with which Uncle Sam has no parcels post agreement. Packages addressed to Russia must go at letter rates. So it is easy to see why, with all these complications, so many parcels are marked "lost," and the sender's address, an inclosed card bearing the words, "From Annie to Willie, with wishes for a merry Christmas," is not a very satisfactory clue. Consequently, Annie's little gift goes into the Government's wastebasket. This means that it is kept for one year on a shelf in the Post-office Department at Washington, and then sold. Lots of people send candy and cake through the mail at Christmas time. Such stuff is dumped at the Dead Letter Office in quantities, and is immediately thrown away, lest it attract mice and rats. The officials in charge of the Dead Letter Office are continually engaged in fighting rats and mice, which have no respect for Christmas gifts, and which like to make their nests among the lost parcels, tearing them to pieces and devouring their contents, if edible. "Despising the good things of life," giving themselves wholly to the saving of others, they really off-hand the annual net proceeds being about $10,000. This proves a very satisfactory Christmas present for Uncle Sam.

It may go (with full prepayment) at the international letter rate, which is 6 cents for the first ounce and 3 cents for each additional ounce—though for England or Germany it requires only 2 cents an ounce. Or it may go by parcels post—in which case a formal customs declaration, properly executed by the sender at a post-office, must be attached to it, with prepayment at 12 cents a pound or fraction thereof. If sent to Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador, or Peru, it must be prepaid at 20 cents an ounce. But there are a few countries, Russia being one of them, with which Uncle Sam has no parcels post agreement. Packages addressed to Russia must go at letter rates. So it is easy to see why, with all these complications, so many parcels are marked "lost," and the sender's address, an inclosed card bearing the words, "From Annie to Willie, with wishes for a merry Christmas," is not a very satisfactory clue. Consequently, Annie's little gift goes into the Government's wastebasket. This means that it is kept for one year on a shelf in the Post-office Department at Washington, and then sold. Lots of people send candy and cake through the mail at Christmas time. Such stuff is dumped at the Dead Letter Office in quantities, and is immediately thrown away, lest it attract mice and rats. The officials in charge of the Dead Letter Office are continually engaged in fighting rats and mice, which have no respect for Christmas gifts, and which like to make their nests among the lost parcels, tearing them to pieces and devouring their contents, if edible. "Despising the good things of life," giving themselves wholly to the saving of others, they really off-hand the annual net proceeds being about $10,000. This proves a very satisfactory Christmas present for Uncle Sam.

IT is a melancholy thing to consider that every year about 100,000 Christmas gifts sent through the mails in this country are lost and never delivered. One-fourth of all the packages that find their way to the Dead Letter Office at Washington in the course of a year are Christmas presents. And it may be added, the great bulk of the lost parcels addressed to foreign countries consist of Christmas gifts—the reason being that very commonly such packages are not mailed in accordance with the requirements of the law.

There are two ways to send a parcel abroad. # What Santa Remembers of White House Christmases

MRS. GRANT, NELLIE AND JESSE

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—When Santa Claus pays his one hundred and tenth annual visit to the White House next Friday night he will again thank his stars that Uncle Santa's old homestead has eight chimneys, all of them good and wide, for when there are young people at the President's house on Christmas eve it is really a wonder that this merry old elf has time to go anywhere else. In addition to the pretty things which he makes himself for the White House young folk, the high officials in Washington always count to him many presents which they wish him to deliver for them, as, indeed, do many silly people who have never laid eyes on a President or any of his kith and kin.

So a White House Christmas morning is always one of happy surprises, as Charlie Taft, perhaps, had in mind when, in commenting on his father's nomination, he said: "But I am awfully sorry for Quentin Roosevelt, for I don't want him to leave the White House. Yet he can visit me often and we will have some fun together."

It is safe to predict that Santa's White House pack will have more weight than bulk this year, for it will contain more books than toys. You see, the two elder Tad children are now at college, Robert being a junior at Yale and Miss Helen a sophomore at Bryn Mawr. And even bright-eyed Charlie Taft has arrived at the age where boys think themselves too big for playthings, for he is boarding school boy now—is attending his Uncle Horace Taft's academy up in Connecticut. But from what we know of Charlie, we can venture that even if he seems to hang up his stocking Santa Claus will supply him plentifully with the things which boys like to read about in the sporting goods catalogues.

Didn't Approve of Xmas Trees.

If you could only catch old "St. Nick" next Friday night and ask him what was his busiest White House experience since the war he would doubtless name Christmas eve, 1901, which fell just after the Roosevelts moved in with their family of four boys and two girls, all of them still at the toy age save the eldest two—Theodore, Jr., and Miss Alice. But although more presents were brought down the big chimneys of the old house that night than in many years, and although more stockings were hung up there, in a row before the fire, Santa was greatly disappointed because Papa Roosevelt wouldn't allow him to bring a Christmas tree for the little ones. It seemed that the new President had the notion that he must discourage what he called the wasteful destruction of small evergreen trees at Christmas time, but Mr. Pinchot, the Government's chief forester, sided with Santa Claus and showed how Christmas tree cutting did the forest good in many places. So the second winter the Roosevelts spent in the White House Old Kris conspired with the vengeful Archie to give the family a real Christmas tree, whether the nature-loving President liked it or not. So after the presents had been distributed in the library this young sprit took his father by the hand and after leading him to an old closet opened the door and pointed to a Christmas tree all studded with miniature electric lights and hung with presents for members of the family. And after the President had finished laughing at Archie's prank he took the children into another room, where they found an electric railway with a real electric train running upon a miniature track with switches, signal lights, sidings and stations.

Lonely Years for Santa.

The loneliest moments that Santa Claus has seen at the White House in post-bellum years were during the four Christmas eves that the McKinleys spent there, for they had lost their little babies before they came to live in the President's house. However, Mrs. McKinley was continually knitting socks and things to be placed in Santa Claus' pack and delivered at other households. Indeed, she was one of Santa's best friends in those days, and helped to keep his Christmas spirits young.

But the jolly old cogder had no lonesome Christmas eves in the last administration of President Cleveland.

"TAD" LINCOLN AND HIS FATHER

When that Chief Magistrate moved into the White House for the second time, in 1893, he brought with him little Ruth, and then, two months before the next Christmas, had come tiny Esther. So the Yuletides after that found four little stockings in a row before the Christmas tree, and Santa Claus, after filling them, delivered to the owners all kinds of costly playthings. And just as though she were one of their little princesses, the rulers were found on Christmas eves, but those of Ruth came to be missed, for she passed away to the good place where every day is Christmas and where her father now lives with her.

***

Some Jolly Times.

Old Kris Kringle could tell you, too, how badly he felt in 1888, when the country chose for President Benjamin Harrison, a man whose children had all grown up, but how relieved he afterward was to learn that the new Chief Magistrate was a grandfather. Indeed, this old Kris Kringle, who had seen even jollier Christmas times than Benjamin Harrison had been the more father of these youngsters. And Grandpa Harrison proved no exception to the grandfather rule, for he and Mrs. Kringle got their white heads together and had some rip-roaring old Christmas for Baby McKee and his little sister Mary, whose great-grandfather, Dr. Scott, in spite of his 30 years, also joined in these festivities, defying Grandpa Harrison to feel a jot younger than he did. And Santa Claus remembers how on one of these Harrison Christmases he brought little Mary McKee a toy piano, a dozen dolls and a full doll housekeeping outfit.

And it seems but the other day to Santa Claus when Mrs. McKee, with her two daughters, May and Jesse, came to take charge of the White House and her niece and nephew, Nellie and Arthur. Nellie was a graceful little maid with a big, warm heart, who busied herself in making the holidays happy for children less fortunate than herself. Indeed, this little girl is one of Santa Claus' favorites, for she was the head of a Christmas club whose purpose was the making of presents for and the giving of Christmas dinners to thousands of poor children. And so pleased was her father with this Christmas spirit of hers that during one holiday week he let her dress all up in her best pale blue frock and have her little schoolmates, Senator Hale's daughters, stand with her in the receiving party at his big New Year reception. Although this little girl was away most of the time attending a French school in New York, and although her brother Alan was sent to college, both always returned to the made merry. Of course, Nancy was the belle of the children's parties in those four years, and a Washington woman, who was much in society in those days, has shown the writer a great picture of this little American "princess," and her younger brother as they appeared at a fancy dress holiday ball when she was in a gown with a long train and he in a soldier's uniform. Indeed, those were lively holiday times, for Mrs. Hayes was continually filling her big official home with bright young girls, and one of these—a Cincinnati lassie of sweet sixteen—had such a delightful time that, after one of these visits, she went home and declared to her mother that she intended to marry only "a man destined to be President." This little girl was Helen Herron, the daughter of President Hayes' law partner, and her ambitions were later realized, for to-day she is mistress of the White House.

A White House Xmas Ball.

How the Grant children came home to the White House for their holidays—Nellie and Ulysses from school, and Fred from West Point—is also remembered by Santa Claus. He recalls how they were greeted with delight by their brother Jesse and how Gen. Sherman used to come over on Christmas nights and romp with them. And, too, he recalls well the White House frolics of the three little Andies of President Johnson's time—little Andy, Jr., just entering his teens, and the two little grandsons, Andy Stover and Andy Paterson, the last of whom had a little sister, Belle. Indeed, one of the merriest holiday parties ever enjoyed by the children of the White House was that of Christmas week, 1868, when President Johnson gave a dance to 400 little boys and girls, who, in the great east room, executed the waltzes, polkas and lancers which they had learned at Martin's Dancing Academy. Two little girls on that festive occasion danced a Spanish dance and at the end of the evening the elder White House guests tripped gaily through a Virginia reel.

But old Kris was never fonder of any children than he was of the two Lincoln boys, Willie and Tad, who became President. But poor little Willie was destined to enjoy but one Christmas in the house of the nation, for he died after living in it just a little over a year. Then "Tad," after his sorrow had somewhat healed, used to amuse his playmates in a theater which he fitted up in an unoccupied room. And this selfish "Tad" had a goat, too, which the father once found chewing her cud in the middle of the boys' bed. How this lad one Christmas successfully appealed to his father to overlook the cook's objection to his feast of turkey and cranberry sauce in the kitchen has long been told in Washington. Tad's elder brother "Bob"—now president of the Pullman Company—was in those days a student at Cambridge and is now the only surviving child of the Lincolns, for poor Tad, when but 18, joined his father and brother Willie in the land that is brighter than day.

Just before Tad's reign in the White House had fallen the longest and loneliest stretch of time that St. Nick ever experienced in that old place. For there had been James Buchanan, the old bachelor President, and just before him Franklin Pierce, whose first two children had died in infancy and whose only other child, a lad of 13, had been killed in a railway accident three months before his father's inauguration. Nor did Millard Fillmore bring any little ones with him to the Chief Magistrate's house, for his children were both grown and unmarried, Miss Mary being a dignified schoolmistress and young Millard a practicing attorney. And Zachary Taylor's youngest child, "Betty," who died only this year, was a grown lady of 18 when he became President, while, worse and more of it, President Polk, who came just before this, had only an adopted child—a grown nephew.

But just beyond this barren waste of twenty children's Christmases at the White House Santa could remember those presided at by little Alice Tyler, who, when she first came to live in the big mansion, was a lass of 12, described by her father as "the fattest thing and the sweetest and the worst you ever saw." She had a little brother, Tazewell, and a lot of grown up brothers and sisters. There was also a handful of merry grandchildren, and this presidential family, and to one of these, little Mary Fairlie Tyler, the Chief Magistrate one Christmas week gave a grand fancy dress ball in the great east room, where the tiny hostess, as Titania, queen of the fairies, with gauzy wings and silver scepter sat upon a miniature throne, while her ill-lit courtiers bowed before her.

And just before President Tyler there had been another doting grandfather in the White House—William Henry Harrison, who at the time of his inauguration had a little grandson of seven years who thought he was cheated out of White House Christmas forever when his good old grandpa died after being President but a few weeks. But perhaps it was through the aid of Santa Claus—who knows—that the disappointed little boy did have four very happy Yuletides in the same White House, where he became the second President, Harrison, the grandpa of Baby McKee.

President Van Buren did not give old Kris Kringle much chance for fun in the White House, for his children were all grown and dignified when he moved in, and the children arrived until after he moved out.

***

Old Hickory's Yuletides.

But just before "Little Van" stay therein the big house had suited Santa Claus full well, for it had rung with the laughter of a merry group of babies who gladdened the heart of the childless and now widowed Andrew Jackson. These were the children of that President's adopted son, Andrew Jackson, Jr., and of his private secretary, Andrew Donelson. And before Old Hickory had come John Quincy Adams, with a family of sons, but they were all too old for Santa Claus when they moved into the "President's Palace," as it was called in those days, and it all seemed very quiet at holiday time without a little girl such as President Monroe had brought there with him. This was little Maria, who was fourteen when her father was elected, and who was destined to be the first White House bride. She had come after the brilliant but childless administration of President Madison, who had only a stepson, Payne Todd, a wild and dissipated youth who disgraced and disappointed his mother, Mrs. Madison. And speaking of the great and good friends of Santa Claus, here was one, the stately "Dolly" Madison, who presided over the White House sixteen years in all, eight years during her second husband's administration and eight years during that of his predecessor, the widowed Thomas Jefferson. She gave Christmas presents in abundance, and one of the happiest Christmas dinners in the White House was one at which she cut the steaming mince pie for six little grandchildren of President Jefferson.

First White House Xmas Baby.

And, going back just one Administration, we now come to the first White House youngsters whom old Kris Kringle can remember. In the winter of 1809 this "President's Palace" was as yet unfinished when its first tenant moved in. He came along with the rest of the moving from Philadelphia, where the National Capital had formerly been, and brought with him a little mite of 4 years, Susanna, the orphan of his son Charles. It is related that a raw set of dishes which Santa Claus brought this little girl one Christmas was smashed all to pieces by a little playmate, who had been overcome with envy at the sight of such pretty toys, but later Mistress Susanna, so the story goes, got her revenge by hitting off the head of this naughty little girl's new wax doll, which opened and shut its eyes. Susanna Adams' little cousins, the Smith children, sometimes came and stayed with her in the then cold and draughty house, in whose unfurnished parlors the first Christmas of the later Christmas festivities—linen was then drying. And one of these cousins was Master John Smith, who used to drive his grandfather around the White House corridors in a strenuous game of horse, during which the President's wife, Dolley, would mercifully slash with a willow switch. George Washington enjoyed no White House Christmases, for the simple reason that he never lived in the White House. Nor did he have any children of his own to enjoy the day with him at the presidential mansion in New York and Philadelphia, where he lived while he was the Chief Magistrate of the nation, before becoming President the father of his country had adopted his wife's grandchildren, George and Nellie Custis, who were 8 and 16 years old when they were brought along with their grandmother on her triumphal journey from Mt. Vernon to the temporary presidential "palace" in New York. Old Santa Claus remembers these youngsters as vividly as he does any of the real White House children who came after them; and he recalls full well the many conspiracies he had with the great General to give them happy Yuletide surmises.

Tastes of Royalty Shown In Christmas Cards.

KING EDWARD'S CARD.

THE CZARINA'S SELECTION.

THE KAISER WILL USE THIS.

(Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.)

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Twenty years ago this Christmas hosts of the late Queen Victoria's friends received dainty cards containing her Majesty's greetings. Four years later this season the solution of the problem of remembering their thousands of friends at Christmas time was adopted by the present rulers of Great Britain, then the Prince and Princess of Wales. It has since become a custom, and the honor of preparing Christmas cards for the German Emperor, the Czar and Czarina of Russia, the King and Queen of Italy and the King and Queen of Spain has also been conferred upon an English firm.

Every year a group of carefully and artistically executed designs is sent to each of the above royal personages in order that the final one chosen in each case may be somewhat representative of the personal taste of the sovereign. The Christmas card of the English sovereign this year, for instance, has a dignity which is symbolic of the nation. It represents a scene in King Arthur's great hall at the Palace of Camelot. A large company of lords and ladies and knights are gathered to witness the ceremony of King Arthur's admitting Sir Tristram, one of the best knights and the gentlest, to the Fellowship of the Round Table. On the right of the picture Sir Lancelot, a prominent figure on his white charger, stands sponsor for the kneeling Sir Tristram. The original picture was painted by Howard Davies. Mr. Davies has also painted the Queen's card, a beautiful panel representing Queen Philippa pleading with King Edward III. for the lives of the citizens of Calais in 1347.

A historic incident in Temple Gardens is the subject of the Christmas card chosen by the Prince of Wales. Its title is "The Roses of York and Lancaster."

It was a felicitous idea to select for representation on the Princess of Wales' card a little boy—Alfred the Great—reading to his mother, Queen Osburra.

Anything nautical has always hit the Kaiser hard. Yachting as a fashionable pastime was almost unknown in Germany before the Kaiser ascended the throne, but during his reign he has made it one of the most popular of national amusements.

The young Queen of Spain has chosen a painting of a Madonna and Child. It is interesting to note that the hair of the Madonna is flaxen and shadows a sweet English face. The queen herself has flaxen hair and is a typical English girl.

One of the most charming of the royal Christmas cards is that selected by the King and Queen of Italy. The artist is Harriet Bennett. Painted in delicate tones the picture represents a mother holding a child close to her breast. The heads of angels with their wings tucked snugly beneath their little chins are hovering above the mother.

The queen was delighted with the painting and to mark her appreciation of it she presented to the manager of the art company a gold cigarette case, on the outside of which is the royal monogram in blue enamel, surrounded by tiny diamonds and rubies.

The Christmas card of the Empress Alexandra of Russia has a beauty that is poignant. It represents a dark-haired Madonna with a rather sad face, shielding her child, who gazes at her in helpless adoration. Though the Czarina is a high-souled, liberal-minded, generous, loving woman of the most refined tastes, no one can adequately describe the profound depths of the unhappiness of this imperial woman. Day and night she broods over the condition of Russia and over the isolation of the imperial family. Often she starts up from the gloomy reveries which have grown habitual to her in a sudden guest of fear that assassins who have so often chosen the rulers of Russia as their victims might be at hand. At other times she storms into the nursery to make sure that her beloved children are all alive. She realizes with dread clearness of comprehension that death hovers over her husband and her family, so that every morning she cannot know whether she will be able to clasp them in her arms at evening.

Furthermore, the painting of white calla lilies on the border of the Czarina's Christmas card is a delicate tribute to her purity. During the fourteen years of her life at the Russian court the Czarina has resolutely opposed the immoral tendencies prevalent in the imperial circles. Her own life has been blameless and she has excluded from her own circle all those women who could be identified as particularly immoral. She has been a woman of the most refined tastes, no one can adequately describe the profound depths of the unhappiness of this imperial woman. Day and night she broods over the condition of Russia and over the isolation of the imperial family. Often she starts up from the gloomy reveries which have grown habitual to her in a sudden guest of fear that assassins who have so often chosen the rulers of Russia as their victims might be at hand. At other times she storms into the nursery to make sure that her beloved children are all alive. She realizes with dread clearness of comprehension that death hovers over her husband and her family, so that every morning she cannot know whether she will be able to clasp them in her arms at evening.

Year after year she told the story, To her little Son, the King of Glory, Ever on His birthday night, In her arms held close and tight, He would beg with childish plea: "Tell Me of the wise men, three, And the gifts brought from afar, And the pretty, shining star, Tell Me, mother, tell it all, Of the cattle and the stall."

Ah! she loved the story, too, as she told it o'er and o'er, How the wondrous light came in the door, One great white and silvery bar, From the radiant, gleaming star; How they came, both friend and stranger, Just to see—"Me, mother, in the manger!" "Yes, my darling, such a funny little bed, For this precious curly head."

"Mother, show Me now the pretty things, You called them gifts, 'most fit for kings."

So, year by year she told the story, Till, a man, the King of Glory, Sat beside her as she told Sweetest story, never old; Now her hair is touched with snow, And the words come sweet and low;

Though her Son, she feels His power, Growing greater, hour by hour, And again it is His birthday night, and His years more than a score, But He listens, as a boy He had listened years before.

Once again she tells the story, But her little Son, the King of Glory, Waits for her beyond the star, Where no pain or sorrows are, 'Tis again His birthday night, Looking now with fading sight At the little garments olden, And the gifts so sweet and golden, Tells to John the old, old story Of her little Son, the King of Glory.

May we tell it through the ages, In our lives, on written pages, All its sweet and holy beauty, Told in love and not as duty, When our lives are sore and saddest, It will help us to be gay, It will light a darkened way, Of our Christ—the King of Glory.

BELLE JENKS MCORKLE.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS STORY

Year after year she told the story, To her little Son, the King of Glory, Ever on His birthday night, In her arms held close and tight, He would beg with childish plea: "Tell Me of the wise men, three, And the gifts brought from afar, And the pretty, shining star, Tell Me, mother, tell it all, Of the cattle and the stall."

Ah! she loved the story, too, as she told it o'er and o'er, How the wondrous light came in the door, One great white and silvery bar, From the radiant, gleaming star; How they came, both friend and stranger, Just to see—"Me, mother, in the manger!" "Yes, my darling, such a funny little bed, For this precious curly head."

"Mother, show Me now the pretty things, You called them gifts, 'most fit for kings."

So, year by year she told the story, Till, a man, the King of Glory, Sat beside her as she told Sweetest story, never old; Now her hair is touched with snow, And the words come sweet and low;

Though her Son, she feels His power, Growing greater, hour by hour, And again it is His birthday night, and His years more than a score, But He listens, as a boy He had listened years before.

Once again she tells the story, But her little Son, the King of Glory, Waits for her beyond the star, Where no pain or sorrows are, 'Tis again His birthday night, Looking now with fading sight At the little garments olden, And the gifts so sweet and golden, Tells to John the old, old story Of her little Son, the King of Glory.

May we tell it through the ages, In our lives, on written pages, All its sweet and holy beauty, Told in love and not as duty, When our lives are sore and saddest, It will help us to be gay, It will light a darkened way, Of our Christ—the King of Glory.

GREAT SHOCK TO COOK'S FRIENDS

Rumor That Copenhagen Has Turned Him Down.

Records Said To Fail To Prove His Claims.

Brooklyn Explorer Writes
Explanatory Letter.

PEARY'S ALLIES GLEEFUL

Copenhagen, Dec. 18.—The Associated Press is informed by a high authority that the committee of the University of Copenhagen in its preliminary examination of his records, failed to discover proof that Dr. Frederick A. Cook reached the North Pole.

A preliminary report was made by the examining committee at a secret session of the university of the city to-day. The committee listened to the report which provoked an animated discussion. It appears that the data so far submitted are not held sufficient to establish this explorer's claims.

Committee Continues Work.

The result of to-day's discussion was a request on the part of the committee that the university continue its work. The university body will have to the investigators proper the matter of making public later the results of their inquiries.

In the meantime, it is announced by an official of the university, the university will not make public any information received orally from the committee at to-day's meeting.

Opinion Undergoes Change.

Popular opinion here appears to have undergone a gradual change. From the beginning of the controversy the populace of Copenhagen has been decidedly pro-Cook. Patriotism has been a strong sentiment. Recent developments, however, have been disappointing, and to-day the general impression prevails that Dr. Cook's claims are not sufficient to constitute proof that he discovered the North Pole.

It is learned that several members of the University Consistory are exceedingly angry over the university's preliminary report, one of them expressing regret that the university had not waited until Dr. Cook's claim that he reached the pole had been proved before honoring him.

Newspapers Are Dubious.

The Copenhagen newspapers, up to the present, have been friendly to Dr. Cook, but it is learned that some of the leading dailies to-morrow will print articles throwing doubt on Cook's story.

They will point out that the Danish people regarded Cook in the light of a national hero and hope still that he is an honest man. The slightest evidence that this is not the case, the papers assert, will depress all Danish with grief.

Will Not Appeal If Decision Is Adverse.

Dr. Cook Has So Notified Copenhagen University—Brooklyn Explorer's Plans.

New York, Dec. 18.—Dr. Cook's close friends said to-night that the doctor, previous to dispatching his polar data to the University of Copenhagen, had written in private to Rector Torp, informing him that in the event of an adverse decision he, Dr. Cook, would not appeal from the findings of the university. His instruments and three documents important to his case, Dr. Cook pointed out in his letter, issued at Kiah, and he thought it possible that, in view of the fact that all the evidence was not in, the university might find a Scotch verdict of "not proven."

If Verdict Is Favorable.

In such event, the doctor wrote, he would fit out an expedition to go to Greenland next summer and bring his complete records and his instruments back with him. If the verdict of the consistory is hostile, however, the expedition will not be attempted.

If the consistory finds in his favor, Dr. Cook will further submit his data, his friends add, to the authorities of Geneva and Brussels, both of which cities have asked for an opportunity to examine them.

The records might similarly go to London, though on that point, Dr. Cook's friends say, the doctor was less positive, as he had never received an invitation to submit them from the Royal Geographical Society, the body which, in all probabilities, would assume the task of passing on them.

Funds Already Pledged.

Funds for the expedition to Greenland, should it be decided to make one, have already been pledged by two friends of Dr. Cook, who still believe in him, and John E. Harbord has offered the use of his yacht.

There was a further rumor to-night, well substantiated, but impossible of positive verification, that Dr. Cook is now within thirty-six hours' journey of Copenhagen, ready to appear personally before the university consistory if his presence is desired. The doctor had so written Rector Torp, his friend's assert.

PEARY "JESS LAFFS."

Has Nothing To Say As To Finding of University.

New York, Dec. 18.—Commander Robert E. Peary smiled broadly to-day when informed that a Copenhagen dispatch had been received quoting a high authority that the committee of the University of Copenhagen in its preliminary examination of his records, failed to find proof that the physician had found the North Pole.

That Dr. Cook is in Europe," said Mr. Wack to-day.

INTEREST AT WASHINGTON.

National Geographic Society Withholds Comment.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Intense interest was manifested here to-day by officers of the National Geographic Society in the preliminary report of the committee of the University of Copenhagen, that it had failed to find proof substantiating Dr. Cook's claim that he had reached the North Pole April 21, 1908. None, however, would permit himself to be quoted. As soon as an official announcement is made of the conclusions of the university's committee, the National Geographic Society will stand ready to make an absolute proof of his claim. Failing to receive this the society will proclaim Commander Peary as the discoverer of the pole.

Big "Blow-Out" For Peary.

CAR RUNS WILD IN EAST ST. LOUIS

MOTORMAN KILLED, CONDUCTOR
MORTALLY WOUNDED.

SHOT IN OUTSKIRTS BY NEGRO HIGHWAYMAN.

NUMEROUS NEAR ACCIDENTS.

East St. Louis, Ill., Dec. 18.—An uncontrolled street car, bearing a dead motorman and a dying conductor, ran wild through four miles of city streets to-night. The men were shot by a negro highwayman, who escaped with a small sum taken from the conductor.

According to the few words spoken by N. P. O'Brien, the conductor, who is desperately wounded, the negro boarded the car in the southeastern part of the city. The conductor refused to obey the highwayman's order to hold up his hands and a struggle ensued.

E. V. Goody, the motorman, is supposed to have started to O'Brien's assistance. From the position of the bodies in the car it is inferred that he was shot down while still some paces from the negro.

Whether O'Brien was shot in the first struggle or when trying to prevent the negro's escape could not be determined. No passengers were on the car and with its motorman dead and its conductor helpless, it ran its wild journey through the streets. Several times as it rounded corners without warning from its gong, pedestrians and vehicles were missed by narrow margins.

The car kept on to the downtown terminal, where employees of the street car company boarded it and brought it to a halt.

LABORATORIES FOR INSPECTION OF FOODS

TO BE ESTABLISHED AT PRINCIPAL
PORTS OF ENTRY.

CLOSER WATCH FOR VIOLATIONS OF PURE FOOD LAW.

LOUISVILLE TO HAVE ONE.

Washington, Dec. 18.—A comprehensive enlargement of the activities of the Department of Agriculture in the administration of the pure food act is contemplated in orders issued to-day. The object is to inaugurate for ports where the department has no chemical laboratory a systematic inspection of foods as is done at the ports where such facilities exist. For this purpose there has been established a complete chain of laboratory districts with headquarters at the principal ports to which will be sent samples of imported goods when they are received.

By the application of this practice there will be referred to Government chemists for examination all imports regarding the right to enter which under the pure food law any doubt may exist in the minds of the customs inspectors at the smaller places.

Officials say the new method will tend to do away with any tendency to import goods in violation of law at ports at which there are no laboratories instead of at the larger ports, although their ultimate destination is the same. Headquarters of the several districts are to be located at Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Denver, Detroit, Galveston, Kansas City, Nashville, New Orleans, New York, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Paul, San Francisco, Seattle, Savannah and Washington, D. C.

GRAND DUKE MICHAEL IS DEAD AT CANNES

OLDEST REPRESENTATIVE OF THE RUSSIAN IMPERIAL HOUSE.

Cannes, France, Dec. 18.—Grand Duke Michael Nikolaevitch, grand uncle of Emperor Nicholas, died here to-day.

Grand Duke Michael Nikolaevitch, the oldest representative of the imperial house, was born in 1832, the fourth son of Emperor Nicholas I. He repeatedly distinguished himself during his long military career, which began early. He entered active service at the age of 14 as a lieutenant and at 20 had attained the rank of general.

Grand Duke Michael fought throughout the Crimean war. In 1863 he was appointed viceroy of the Caucasus and commander-in-chief of the Caucasian army, with instructions to subdue the tribes of the region. This task he accomplished successfully.

WOMEN PLEAD FOR PROTECTION

Charge Horrible Cruelties To Zelaya's Agents.

Men Thrown Into Prisons
and Tortured.

Ask Uncle Sam To Bring Oppressors To Justice.

CALDERA'S LIFE THREATENED.

Managua, Nicaragua, via Corinto, Dec. 18.—Some of the most prominent women in Managua have sent a petition to Henry Caldera, the Acting Consul of the United States here. Their names are signed to the petition, which sets forth the tortures to which Zelaya's prisoners have been subjected and pitifully requests the intervention of the American Government.

"Numberless prisoners," says the petition, "have been tortured in their cells; their families have been impoverished; liberty has been crushed and patriots have been killed in their efforts to end crime, extortion and tyranny and to prevent the assassination of Groce and Cannon."

"We implore you to bring the malefactor to justice that his many crimes may receive the punishment they deserve and that he be not permitted to escape."

Reign of Terror.

For weeks the associates and adherents of Zelaya have been conducting a reign of terror. Their chief victims have been the best people in the country. Property has been confiscated, fathers and sons imprisoned, wives and daughters forced to submit to unspeakable outrages, dragged off to jail, or cruelly injured. So appalling were the conditions that a large number of women not together and finally decided to submit their plea to the representatives of the Government whose warships are close at hand. It is not only their own protection they seek, but the safety of those who, in the last few days, have had courage enough to rise in public places and denounce Zelaya and his administration.

The agitation became so strong against the holding of hundreds, perhaps thousands, in prison, that the officials deemed it advisable to take steps to release at least some of those against whom crimes had only been alleged. Most of the political prisoners, therefore, were released to-day, but there are still many others behind the walls.

Speak Out Too Soon.

It was after the American warships had left Corinto that the demonstration against Zelaya became pronounced, for those who have been crying for the Government to take steps to release at least some of those against whom crimes had only been alleged. Most of the political prisoners, therefore, were released to-day, but there are still many others behind the walls.

Many revolutionary suspects have been thrown into prison and put to torture, and there are a number also now in chains who refused to do the bidding of the Government. Among these is Anibal Chavez, an officer in the army, who was in command of the firing squad when Groce and Cannon were brought out for execution. He refused to give the firing order, exclaiming as he threw down his sword: "I am a soldier, not a murderer."

Threaten Caldera.

Consul Caldera is daily in receipt of messages of death, but beyond exercising watchful care he has taken no precautions to guard against attack and about attending to the duties of his post.

Word has reached here that Dr. Jose Madrid, Zelaya's candidate for President, has arrived at San Juan del Sur on his way to Corinto. He is hastening to Managua to inform himself personally of the situation. At Corinto it is believed Madrid will confer with several of his strongest supporters, who are proceeding there from various departments.

CREATS NO SURPRISE.

Central Americans Say Zelaya Is Capable of Atrocities.

Washington, Dec. 18.—In Central American diplomatic circles here no surprise was expressed to-night at the reported action of Zelaya and his adherents in imprisoning and torturing the political prisoners. It had been predicted that Zelaya would wreak a saturnal vengeance on those who opposed him and who had fallen beneath his power and that this vengeance would be withheld until the time came when he foresaw his downfall.

"Zelaya is vindictive and his cruelty is a byword in our part of the world," said a Central American diplomat to-night. "That he will exact in blood and tears all that he believes is due him no one who knows him will doubt for a moment. Such stories of his persecutions as have been received here unofficially lead us to believe that he has inaugurated a reign of terror that would put Nero to blush."

No Official News.

Up to a late hour Dr. Castriello, the representative in Washington of the revolutionary government, had received no authentic dispatches from the Central American diplomats. None, however, expected that Zelaya had begun to exact his revenge.

The troopship Buffalo is expected to reach Corinto to-morrow afternoon, and the 700 United States marines aboard will be available in case alarming reports are received. It was stated at the port that the United States marines are dispatched from here. No delay will be experienced in transmitting the authentic dispatches that have been received by the Central American diplomats.

Uncle Sam Wants No Mexican Warships In Nicaraguan Waters.

Mexico City, Dec. 18.—The Mexican gunboat Guerrero may not go to Corinto, Nicaragua, Minister of War Gonzalez Corio to-night said that he had not given any order for the vessel to sail to Corinto, nor had he been instructed to issue such an order. He admitted, however, that the gunboat is in readiness to sail at any moment if it should be desired that it make the voyage. The Guerrero is still at Salina Cruz.

It was officially stated that it was the intention of the Government a few days ago to order the vessel to Nicaragua waters, but it now appears probable that the proposed journey will be abandoned. It is believed here that if Mexico sent the Guerrero or any other war vessel to Nicaragua the United States might misinterpret the motive for such action. Reports from Washington to the effect that the act would doubtless be regarded as unfriendly occasioned considerable comment in this capital. Officials of the Mexican Government continue to assert the utmost friendliness toward the Washington Government.

As Enrique C. Cuel is in Washington as the personal representative of President Diaz, Government officials here declare there is no occasion for them to discuss the Nicaraguan situation for publication.

HEARS OF RESIGNATION

And Gen. Vasquez At Once Agrees To Confer With Estrada.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Dec. 18.—Messengers sent by Gen. Estrada, leader of the revolutionists, carrying news of Zelaya's resignation, reached Gen. Vasquez at the head of the Zelayan troops last night. Gen. Vasquez at once agreed to a conference.

The public and soldiers are showing little excitement, but are indulging in much speculation as to the outcome of the meeting between the representatives of the two generals.

Knox Writes Cannon's Parents.

Covington, Ky., Dec. 18.—(Special.)—A deal to make the largest banking institution in Northern Kentucky is being made by the directors of the Farmers and Traders' National Bank. President E. S. Lee, of the First National Bank, to-day said that the new bank, which will comprise these two institutions, will probably be begun within the next few days.

The vote of the stockholders of the Farmers and Traders' Bank.

HAND'S SANITY STILL IN DOUBT

Criminal Court Jury Couldn't Agree On Verdict.

Rule Issued Against J. H.
Ross by Judge Kirby.

Judge Miller Decides Interesting Road Case.

SIXTEEN DIVORCE DECREES.

For a full hour yesterday afternoon a jury in the Criminal Court, B. W. Dorsey sitting as Special Judge, deliberated on evidence offered to support the plea that Archie Hand is insane, and could not agree on a verdict. Judge Dorsey then discharged the jury. Hand is in jail on the charge that he murdered County Patrolman W. J. Conners last May at a roadside southeast of the city. He has been in jail since that time and three times in all has been attempted to kill himself.

Aaron Kohn and Norton Goldsmith, appearing for Hand, introduced a number of the turnkeys at the jail and three doctors, and the Commonwealth put on several turnkeys. It was the contention of the Commonwealth that Hand was sane and that he had driven him insane, and they introduced witnesses who told of his attempts to kill himself and the doctors who testified that he is unbalanced. It was shown that he had relatives on both sides of his family who had been insane. It was the theory of Joseph M. Huffaker, Commonwealth's Attorney, and he so stated to the jury, that Hand had done nothing or said nothing that any normal man in a similarly desperate situation would not have done.

Hand talks as though a talking machine were continually questioning him and cross-examining him. He is 37 years of age and married.

His wife, who is partly blind, was beside him in the courtroom and all his friends are standing by him.

Had the jury decided him to be of unsound mind he would have been committed to an asylum, subject to trial for murder when his senses were restored. It was the plea of the attorneys representing him that he was in no condition to go to trial on this charge and at this time.

Rule Against J. Hunter Ross.
Judge Kirby yesterday issued a rule against J. Hunter Ross, former city bond recorder, returnable on January 1, 1940, requiring Mr. Ross to come into court and show cause why he should not be removed from his office.

Several motions were offered in the suit of A. L. York et al against Mr. Ross. This is a suit in which the plaintiff seeks to recover for himself and others who have paid the Bond Recorder in excess of the fee he asserts is allowed under the law.

Esauans Can Use the Road.
In finding for Mrs. Isabel F. Esauan in her suit against W. W. Fund and by which she sought to enjoin the defendant from obstructing a long-used passageway through his farm, Judge Miller yesterday permanently enjoined Frederick from blocking the road.

In the opinion he wrote to explain his decision, Judge Miller pointed out that the roadway through the Frederick place connected the Esauan farm with the Heady road, which leads to the Taylorsville pike, and that since 1912 the Esauans had had access to the Heady road through the Frederick place.

The elder Frederick died some years ago and one of the rogue members of the family among whom the Frederick place was apportioned, wished to plough up the road, perhaps. Anyway, the Esauans sued to keep him from shutting off access to the Heady road from their place.

It was shown and not disputed that the Esauans had used the road for years, although its general course had been changed and it was further shown for the plaintiff that before the death of the elder Frederick there had been an agreement with him by which the Esauans and their neighbors were to be allowed use of the road if they worked it. Judge Miller upheld their claim on the grounds that besides having the right to use it that comes from "adverse use" they had the additional claim of right given them by the agreement with the elder Frederick.

Sixteen Divorce Decrees.
Sixteen decrees of divorce were handed down yesterday at joint session by the chancellors, Judge Miller and Judge Kirby, as follows:

Alley Quickle from John Quickle, for cruel treatment. They were married at Springfield, Tenn., on October 2, 1932.

Florence B. Willman from William Willman, for cruel treatment. They were married on January 11, 1931. The plaintiff is given the custody of her 6-year-old daughter.

Myrtle Pratt from Albert C. Pratt, for abandonment. They were married on July 2, 1937, and lived together only for a part of that month.

Anna Carter from Robert Carter, for cruel treatment. They were married in 1934.

Minnie Jones from Jackson Jones, for five years separation. They were married in 1939.

Sophia Sweeney from Timothy Sweeney, for cruel treatment. They were married in January, 1937.

Annie B. Hubbard from Thomas L. Hubbard, for statutory grounds. They were married on July 11, 1935.

Rosa Greenwell from Irvin Greenwell, for cruel treatment. They were married on April 16, 1937.

Mary McCafferty from John McCafferty, for five years separation. They were married on December 27, 1938. The plaintiff is restored to her maiden name of Mary Boyle.

Grant LeCompte Almut from James Almut, for drunkenness and nonsupport. They were married on July 23, 1937. The plaintiff is restored to her maiden name of Grant LeCompte.

Mary Jackson from George S. Jackson, for nonsupport. The plaintiff, who was married to the defendant in 1933, asked for the custody of her children. No witnesses appeared, and the case was dismissed.

John Oliver, accused of pointing a pistol, was also dismissed. The plaintiff, who had been in jail longer than he had been out, was given the maximum penalty for the offense.

J. F. Betz, who had appealed from a $250 fine for giving aid to a fugitive, was dismissed. The decision of the lower court having been reversed, Judge Pryor sitting.

Ed Thomas, who had appealed from a fine of $25 and bond of $400 for three months, assessed in Magistrate Spahn's court, also was dismissed. He was charged with selling liquor without a license.

Agreed Facts In Bridge Suit.
In the suit of Hardin county against Jefferson county, by which the first county seeks to compel the county to co-operate in the construction of a bridge across Salt River near West Point, a statement of "agreed facts" was filed in Judge Miller's court. These agreed facts may be summarized as follows:

That a public Jefferson county road runs to the bank of the river on this side, and that a West Point street runs to the other bank of the river, the two being connected by ferry (this is the old Louisville and Nashville pike); that the assessed value of Jefferson county's taxable property for 1935, exclusive of whisky in bond, was $198,952.44; that the yield for this year in taxes on whisky in bond should be at least $121,000, and that there are at least $4,100 voters in Jefferson county.

No Cause For Action.
"D—n you! You have no wife!" if said to one man by another, does not constitute a cause of action for damages. So Judge Batson held yesterday in joint session when he sustained a demurrer to the suit of Frank E. Rick against J. H. Porter. The alleged slanderous words, said the plaintiff, were addressed to Rick by the defendant on October 30, 1938, when he was "living happily with his wife, Nora Rick."

Judge Batson held that "the words themselves are not actionable, and that innuendo cannot extend the meaning of words beyond their natural import." The plaintiff asked $2,000 as damages.

New Jury Fund Trustees.
S. M. Sapinsky, for several years trustee of the jury fund of the Criminal Court, yesterday handed his resignation to Judge Joseph Pryor, who appeared in the courtroom for the first time in several weeks, much better than for some time. In Mr. Sapinsky's place Judge Pryor named David R. Castleman, who will serve for a four-year term. Mr. Sapinsky, whose term has expired, has not been in good health for some time. Mr. Castleman yesterday qualified by giving bond of $5,000. Mr. Sapinsky's final report showed that the trustee had received something less than $1,000 from September to date.

Free Ray Executes Bond.
Free Ray, County Clerk-elect, qualified as such yesterday, when he went before Judge Arthur Peter, of the County Court, and executed a bond of $50,000 with the American Bonding Company.

Contractor On Top Again.
R. L. Figg, the contractor who improved Third-street road through the corporate limits of Oakdale in 1935, or later, is on top again in his litigation against the owners of property abutting on that street. He did the work, the Oakdale Council accepted it, and now he is endeavoring to realize on the apportionment warrants against the property owners.

Judge Miller, in a ruling delivered yesterday by which he overruled a demurrer to an amended petition, held for the contractor. Previously he had held against the contractor and for the property owners. A recent decision of the Court of Appeals was taken advantage of by the plaintiff's counsel.

They amended the petition and Judge Miller holds with them.

The questions whether the contractor had observed the statute which applied, or, if he had not adhered to it, had the deviation been due to the requests of the property owners, arose in the points that Judge Miller passed on.

No Roberts-Avenue Crossing Now.
No progress can be made by the city with its plans for the construction of the Roberts-avenue crossing over the Louisville and Nashville tracks, in Crescent Hill, until the Court of Appeals passes on the case, or, unless, when the case comes before Judge Kirby on the motion for a permanent injunction, he should decide in favor of the city.

This situation comes about through the decision of Judge Kirby announced yesterday morning. He then said that he would grant the motion of the Louisville and Nashville for a temporary injunction against the city.

In giving the reasons for this disposition of the motion Judge Kirby said that either way he should pass would leave doubts in favor of the other side. The ruling that he gave yesterday, said, would be to the convenience of both litigants and would enable them to get the Court of Appeals to pass on the case. Speaking of the crossing plans, he said that he thought it would be a death trap, for the reason of the steep descent from Frankfort avenue to the level of the railroad tracks.

Records of the Criminal Court.
Phil Stoll, whose case was called again in the Criminal Court yesterday as on many Saturdays theretofore, was dismissed on motion of the Commonwealth when no witnesses appeared against him. He was accused of buying election certificates, and appealed from the ante-election Police Court findings. No witnesses appeared, and since they have failed to do so repeatedly, the Commonwealth dismissed the action.

John Oliver, accused of pointing a pistol, was also dismissed. The plaintiff, who had been in jail longer than he had been out, was given the maximum penalty for the offense.

J. F. Betz, who had appealed from a $250 fine for giving aid to a fugitive, was dismissed. The decision of the lower court having been reversed, Judge Pryor sitting.

Phil Stoll, whose case was called again in the Criminal Court yesterday as on many Saturdays theretofore, was dismissed on motion of the Commonwealth when no witnesses appeared against him. He was accused of buying election certificates, and appealed from the ante-election Police Court findings. No witnesses appeared, and since they have failed to do so repeatedly, the Commonwealth dismissed the action.

John Oliver, accused of pointing a pistol, was also dismissed. The plaintiff, who had been in jail longer than he had been out, was given the maximum penalty for the offense.

J. F. Betz, who had appealed from a $250 fine for giving aid to a fugitive, was dismissed. The decision of the lower court having been reversed, Judge Pryor sitting.

Ed Thomas, who had appealed from a fine of $25 and bond of $400 for three months, assessed in Magistrate Spahn's court, also was dismissed. He was charged with selling liquor without a license.

Agreed Facts In Bridge Suit.
In the suit of Hardin county against Jefferson county, by which the first county seeks to compel the county to co-operate in the construction of a bridge across Salt River near West Point, a statement of "agreed facts" was filed in Judge Miller's court. These agreed facts may be summarized as follows:

That a public Jefferson county road runs to the bank of the river on this side, and that a West Point street runs to the other bank of the river, the two being connected by ferry (this is the old Louisville and Nashville pike); that the assessed value of Jefferson county's taxable property for 1935, exclusive of whisky in bond, was $198,952.44; that the yield for this year in taxes on whisky in bond should be at least $121,000, and that there are at least $4,100 voters in Jefferson county.

No Cause For Action.
"D—n you! You have no wife!" if said to one man by another, does not constitute a cause of action for damages. So Judge Batson held yesterday in joint session when he sustained a demurrer to the suit of Frank E. Rick against J. H. Porter. The alleged slanderous words, said the plaintiff, were addressed to Rick by the defendant on October 30, 1938, when he was "living happily with his wife, Nora Rick."

Judge Batson held that "the words themselves are not actionable, and that innuendo cannot extend the meaning of words beyond their natural import." The plaintiff asked $2,000 as damages.

Company, of Baltimore, as surety. The bond was approved, and Mr. Ray will be sworn in as County Clerk on the first Monday in the new year, January 2.

Grand Jury Dismisses Two.
Charges against two people, one man and one woman, were dismissed by the grand jury yesterday. Adjournment was taken until to-morrow. The cases investigated were those of Leonard Sanders, charged with malicious striking, and Bettie Jewell, charged with robbery.

STRANG BREAKS BARNEY OLDFIELD'S RECORD.

Owners of Plant and Drivers Satisfied With New Condition of Track—Safety Seems Assured.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 18.—The five-mile speed record for an automobile upon an elliptical track was broken on the motor speedway today by Louis Strang, driving a 20-horse-power Buick at 117.70. The record had been held by Oldfield, who covered the distance with a Benz car in 4:11.30 last summer on this course before it was paved with brick.

Strang's wonderful performance, clipping almost a minute from the five-mile record, so startled the officials of the track and the few motor racing enthusiasts that had braved the cold for the sake of seeing Strang and Christie attempt to break world's records for short distances, that they at first were disposed not to credit it. But the electric timing device could not be doubted and neither Fred Wagner, the starter, announced that he had caught Strang's time with a stop watch at the end of the race, nor did the officials of the track.

When Strang stopped he found that one of his tires had been slit and must have burst. He decided not to make any further efforts at records at this time. He said that if it had not been for the bad tire he believed his time would have been even faster.

The timing machine caught Strang's time at 117.70.

THE CORN-HUSKING RECORD.

(Kansas City Journal.)
Representative Lambertson, of Brown county, declares that the honors for the most corn husked in a day go to a workman on his farm. Lambertson has a young man named Joe McGinty working for him. McGinty is 15 years old, weighs about 110 pounds and is of medium height. "Mac," said Lambertson, recently, "you are a cracking good man. I've got a notion in my head that you can break the record for the amount of corn husked in a day. Suppose you see what you can do."

"It's a go," said McGinty, and they went to work. So, promptly on the morning after, McGinty was in the field, before breakfast. He had a good Irish combination, and the fact that he got along well together was only natural. McGinty called into his job for all it was worth. When night came on the total results were checked up. He had husked 202 bushels and forty pounds.

"I bet that's the record," remarked Lambertson, "and it is so far as I know, at least. He went out the next day and husked 120 bushels just to cool off. He is the husking kid."

Lambertson was one of the youngest members of the last Legislature, and a graduate of the University of Chicago, and an example of how a college boy can successfully run a farm. For Lambertson is making it pay.

Holy Trinity Team Defeated.
San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 18.—Peacock Academy, of this city, defeated Holy Trinity College, of Dallas, at football by a score of 15 to 2. The game was to decide the intercollegiate championship of Texas. The game was played in a snowstorm, the ball at times being covered with a coat of ice.

President Comiskey is said to be seriously thinking of trading pitcher Frank Smith for outfielder George Stone, of St. Louis, for the alleged reason that there is a possibility of a trade between the two clubs for two star pitchers, Walsh and Smith.

But that telegram was from Nick Young and was a congratulatory note on my fairness in the New York games. The whole thing was a joke, as long as I had been honest and fair.

Promises Square Deal.
"And that is going to be my policy as president of the National League. I know the game about as well as anyone, and I think I have pretty good representation. The public, the players and the umpires will get nothing but a square deal from me. I will not let anyone be above the law and open to the newspapers."

Heidelberg's speech was laudatory of Lynch as an umpire, and then several times he tried to get the crowd to cheer for him. He was not successful.

Only Twenty-Five Players.
The resolution changing the by-laws so that no club may carry more than twenty-five players during the "playing season" caused some confusion. The by-laws did not specify the dates of the "playing season." President Ebbetts, however, declared that the "playing season" would be from May 10 to August 31, and that the resolution would permit clubs to carry more than twenty-five players from August 31 to May 10.

By May 10 and after August 31 the clubs are to be limited to twenty-five players. It is specifically stated that the "playing season" is to be from May 10 to August 31.

Lynch, the new president, was an umpire in the National League from 1901 to 1902, and one of two years of retirement and then became a byword for honesty and fairness because a byword for the "fans," who continued to remember him as the umpire who had been elected voluntarily in 1901 to manage a theater he opened at New Britain, Conn.

stocking which is not nearly so cumbersome as the skin guards of a catcher.

Murphy paid $25,000 for the Philadelphia franchise. Duffman, McNichol and the club paid $200,000 for it. The club has made a profit of $100,000 in the last year. Who is the sucker to go $100,000 on a losing club?

To keep public patronage the leagues should compel every club to give a list of its stockholders. The public wants to know what the business of the league is. It is the national game.

Johnny Dunn, manager of Baltimore, used to bet on the horses for a living. Now he has a valet who shaves and manicures him. ...

Abstein will have to work to hold his job as first-sacker of the Pirates. Fred Clarke announced that he had bought Jack Flynn from St. Paul for $25,000. Flynn, who is studying law in Georgetown, is a noted slugger and fancy feller.

Sodon and Conant, of the Boston Nationals, still own $60,000 worth of stock in the Giants. They came in to keep the club when it was in dire straits.

This baseball game has grown to a business of great magnitude. No longer can a club be carried by some man simply as a side line for the love of the sport. With million-dollar clubs, national cities and millions of dollars tied up in the sport throughout the country, the men behind the business of the game have no desire to go back to good old days of political warfare.

The magnates, ever mindful of the elusive dollar, have more and more sported with the idea of selling the club as a pecuniary advantage they expect to gain by having their own way. They like to play this fascinating game of baseball politics for the sake of winning.

So it is safe to say, after all the mysterious maneuverings and secret sessions have been left in the past, the National League magnates will emerge from their annual meeting without wrecking their organization by any means. And looking now as if John T. Brush, the wisest old man of the league, will be elected president and place John M. Ward in the president's chair.

The big leagues will have a merry session over the schedule problem, with the National League contending for 168 games and the American League proposing only 144. With practically no money at stake, the National League will not be surprised if both the leagues should adopt schedules about like schedules of last year.

The American Association will get in the political game about two weeks hence and the chances are that more far will fly at Chicago during the holidays than at New York. The American Association president will contribute its share of fun, and the association also has a schedule problem to solve. It is not likely, however, that there will be any change in the length of the playing season. There are some ambitious expansionists in the association, and this fact makes a situation that will be a source of contention before the association decides who's who.

OATS AS DELICACIES.

The straits to which the Parisians were reduced for food during the siege of the city by the Germans in 1918 are vividly described by Mr. Frank Schlosier in the December number of the Contemporary Review. He writes that the Parisians, in the last days of the siege, were reduced to eating oats as delicacies.

Some balm was poured over the wounded spirit of Joe Cantillon, former manager of the Washington team, when the American League adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, That the American League hereby expresses its confidence in the loyalty to the American League of Joe Cantillon during the time he acted as manager of the Washington team." Joe Cantillon was the manager of the Washington team during the 1938 season.

A modification of the "one year" rule was also adopted. It was decided that the clubs should be allowed to carry more than twenty-five players during the "playing season." The "playing season" was defined as the period from May 10 to August 31.

PATSY TAKES FEATURE RACE

Randolph Colt Beats a Good Field and Breaks Track Record.

THREE FAVORITES ARE FIRST.

Jacksonville Officials Fine Plunger Joe Yeager $250 For Alleged Giving Presents To Jockeys.

BOOGER RED IS VICTORIOUS.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 18.—(Special.)—The Palm Beach Stakes, the feature race of the afternoon at the local track, went to P. S. P. Randolph's Patsy, which has demonstrated that he is one of the best handicap horses in training here. The son of Peep of Day covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:16 4-5, which is a track record for the distance.

Five started in the big event, and Patsy was at all times the favorite. Green Seal and Jockey King were the only ones who set a merry clip, tried in the final stages, but managed to hold on long enough to save the place from Sir Clegas, which received smart backing. Patsy was much the best, being forced to take the overland route throughout.

The weather prevailed, and one of the largest crowds of the morning was in attendance. The bookmakers and the talent had a draw in their battle, as three of the six winners were favorites. The finishers were close in the majority of the events, and the crowd enjoyed the sport greatly. The greatest surprise of the afternoon came with the running of the second race, when Ben Double, considered one of the best horses here, failed to finish inside of the money.

Joe Yeager was the plunger under investigation for making "presents" to riders, and the officials handed down a ruling that Yeager must pay a fine of $250 and be more careful in the future. Yeager had admitted to the officials that he had made him "presents" after his victory on Catherine Cardwell, but he accepted any "presents" from plunger in the future that his license would be revoked.

Adala proved to be best in the opening dash, an event at seven furlongs, for a 2-year-old, and Jockey King got credit for a winning moment. Dictation proved best of the others, and took the place from My Henry. Saravus did not run, as he had been disqualified outside of the money.

It was in the second race that Ben Double failed to get any part of the money. Double, who had been playing and won for Phil Chinn. The mare was well-handled by Powers, and showed a light-class turn of speed. Coward, a consistent performer, got the place, while Raulo, showing improvement, took the third.

Booger Red, the odds-on favorite, made good in the third event, leading Jockey Nummy and Petulant. The first-meeting pair had the race between them, but Jockey Burns was substituted by the officials. Burns rode a hustling race from start to finish.

G. O. Ogilvie, the Montreal millionaire and owner of Marmora, has decided to retire from the game. He has wired Trained to dispose of all of his horses. Ogilvie is said to have lost interest in the game as a result of the failure of his horse, Marmora, to win the Futurity on Thursday is said to have cost Ogilvie a neat sum.

Phil Muevry, formerly employed by A. J. Alvey, the Louisville plunger, has been sent down to the officials, pending an investigation into the defeat of the filly.

Time 1:14 3-5. Golden Field, Saraband, Star over and Ten Faces also ran.

Time 1:14 1-5. Top Note, Sangli, Ben Double, Hoary and Ten Faces also ran.
